Deepening Drought Threatening Farmer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spreading and deepening drought conditions are raising serious threats to crop production and farm income in many parts of the country. Higher prices of some foods could result.

Without doubt, volume will fall considerably below the Agriculture Department's Aug. 1 forecast that crop production will be less than 1 per cent below last year's record high.

Vital pasture for livestock is being damaged. So are such crops as corn, sorghum grain, soybeans, cotton and sugar beets.

There is no likelihood, however, that production will be reduced enough to create any national shortage.

The department is speeding emergency aid to many farmers. It already has granted states permission to graze and cut what little hay there is on land that had been retired from production under government payment programs.

Department officials are concerned that if the dry weather continues much longer in areas where cattle are dependent on grass there could be a heavy liquidation of herds, with a consequent tumble in cattle and other livestock prices and possible overcrowding of marketing and processing facilities.

The drought is having a serious impact on milk production in some areas. The department is expected to take emergency action soon to increase producer prices of milk in 13 metropolitan marketing areas in Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Kentucky, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Great Lakes region, playland and workland of the Midwest, is suffering a multimillion-dollar thirst. Water levels are at record lows.

The lack of water, attributed to subnormal precipitation since 1960, has boosted the cost of shipping, reduced property values, and killed off wildlife and fishing.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers recently added to the gloom when it predicted that water levels would continue to drop at least until 1965. The engineers said only Lake Superior (Continued on Page 12)

Auto Industry Strike Readied

DETROIT (AP) — Notice has been served on the nation's auto industry that a strike will be scheduled next week against General Motors, Ford or Chrysler if negotiations for a new labor contract remain stalemated.

United Auto Workers Union officials decided Thursday in Chicago to defer until next Wednesday at a special 8 p.m. meeting in Detroit the question of whether to authorize a strike at one of the automotive industry's Big Three.

"If the companies persist in their present offers, there will be a strike," said UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

Reuther was referring to virtually-identical economic package proposals made last Monday by the auto companies.

The offer provided for higher wages, earlier retirement and larger pensions for more than half a million UAW members at automotive plants around the nation. They were promptly branded "miserably inadequate" by union leaders.

Spokesmen for the three auto companies had no comment on the union's action in postponing its selection of a strike target until next week.

When the economic proposal was made, Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, termed it the "most generous we've ever made to the UAW."

Reuther said next Wednesday's meeting in Detroit would review the status of negotiations at the time and receive reports on strike votes now being taken.

Then, if necessary, the board will select a strike target. In 1961, the target was GM. In 1955 and 1958, it was Ford.

"We do not want a strike, and we shall continue to make every good faith effort at the bargaining table to avoid a strike," said the union's international executive board.

Present UAW contracts with GM, Ford and Chrysler expire Aug. 31.

In their package proposals, the Big Three offered pay increases ranging from 18 to 36 cents an hour over a three-year period and a boost in pension payments from $2.80 a month for each year of service to $3.25.

They also proposed making 60 years the normal retirement age rather than 65.

Other provisions included adding Good Friday to the present six full-day and two half-day holidays, plus four weeks vacation pay instead of three weeks for employees with 25 years of service.

Lima Cigar Plant Strike Is Ended

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — An estimated 300 employees, about 75 per cent of a normal shift, returned to work today at the DWG Cigar Corp., ending a two-day strike.

Walter Lawson, Lima attorney and special arbitrator, ruled Thursday that the strike was in violation of the company's contract with Local 908 of the Teamsters Union.

The corporation has about 700 employees, most of them women, on two shifts.

The strike reportedly stemmed from the layoff of some employees

Penitentiary Inmate Stabbed Seriously

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lincoln M. Lawson, 31, Ohio penitentiary inmate, is reported in serious condition in the prison hospital with multiple stab wounds suffered in a knife attack by another inmate Wednesday night.

Prison authorities said Louis Fisher, 31, serving a life term for first-degree murder from Summit County, used a crude home-made knife in a dormitory assault on Lawson, who is serving an armed robbery sentence from Hamilton County.

Syncom 3 Is Nearly On Station

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency reported today that Syncom 3 had achieved a near-stationary orbit and said it was confident the communications package could be maneuvered into position as the world's first stationary satellite — one that hovers over a single spot on earth.

The near-stationary orbit was achieved high above Sumatra Thursday when a satellite motor fired to shift Syncom 3 out of a wide-looping path into a circular orbit where both the high and low points are about 23,000 miles.

The motor firing, triggered by a ground radio signal, also increased the spacecraft speed so that it matched that of the rotation of the earth. Thus, the satellite appears to hang almost motionless over the Sumatra area in the Indian Ocean.

It was hoped the maneuver would arrest Syncom 3 directly above the equator. However, this was not fully realized and the satellite apparently is weaving north and south across the equatorial line at slight angle.

The angular movement can be eliminated by radio commands to small gas jets aboard the satellite. These jets also will be used to move Syncom 3 from the position above Sumatra to a stationary outpost above the Pacific Ocean intersection of the equator and International Date Line. The maneuvering is expected to take about 10 days.

Number of Women In Dem Party Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's delegation to the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City, N.J., next week will have more women in it than ever before.

Thirty-five women will attend as delegates and alternates. Four years ago, there were 16 women and in 1952 there were only eight.

A report from Democratic delegation headquarters said city women will outnumber rural women 4-3 in the delegation.

National Committeewoman Helen Gunsett of Van Wert has one of the most important jobs of either sex. She is co-chairman of the powerful credential committee which will pass on the disputed Mississippi delegations.

Miss O'Brien, in her early 30s and a resident of Kenmore Avenue, Chicago, came to Boston as an unwanted delegate to the fourth annual national convention of the Cigar Smokers of America, meeting today and Saturday.

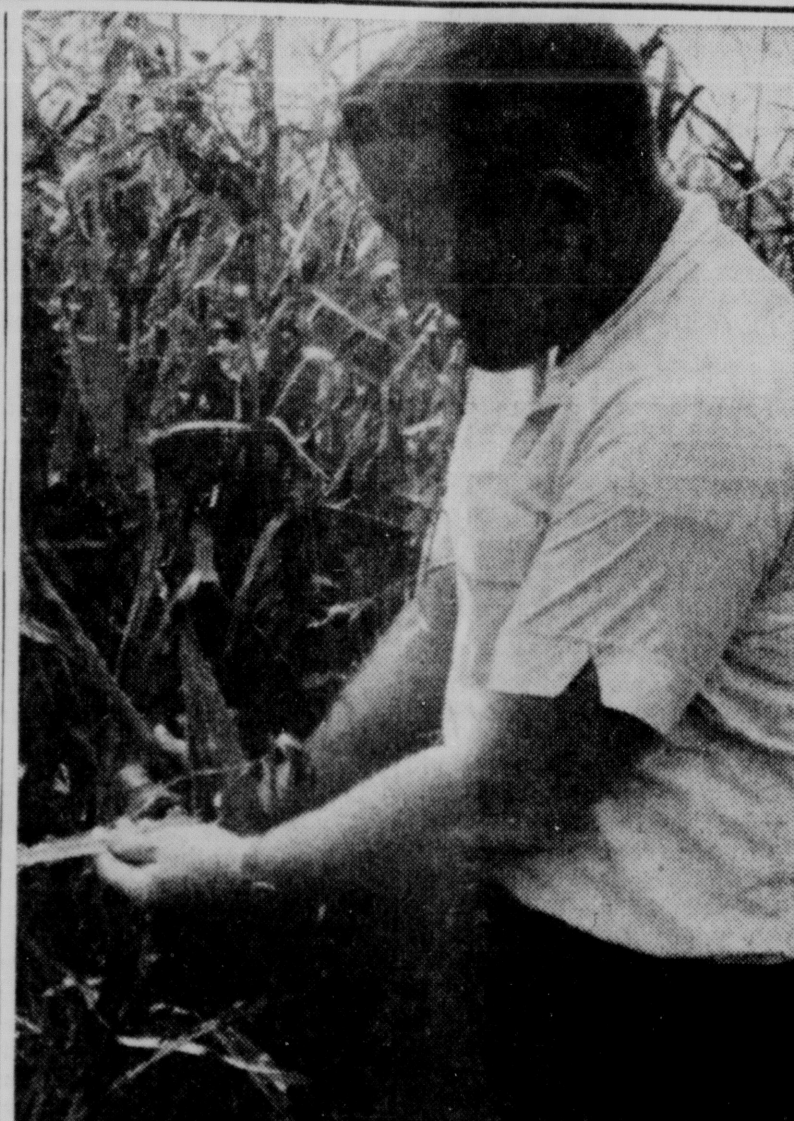

The national organization — made up of humidorists in eight cities — would rather not have women as members.

Miss O'Brien is in the unique position of having helped found the Chicago Humidor and expand its membership to more than 100.

HAIL OF A STORM — George Hamrick, Pickaway County Extension agent, checks an ear of corn in a field hit by a hail storm earlier this week. The ice pellets shattered leaves from the corn stalks. Overall damage has been estimated at $75,000. The storm belt stretched from Orient to Ashville to Ringgold and was described as three miles wide at its most destructive point.

Reports Disclose Heavy Hail Loss

Reports being tabulated here today indicate that Tuesday's hail storm that struck a portion of the county caused considerable crop damage.

Inspections conducted following the Tuesday weather blast show that corn and soybean fields were hard hit. Agriculture officials here say the damage may run as high as $75,000.

A check throughout the county disclosed that the heaviest impact of the storm generally stretched from Orient to Ashville to Ringgold. Its path was estimated to have been as much as three miles wide in some areas.

Truck crops such as tomatoes and melons in the path of the storm were reported damaged. Apple and peach trees now bearing fruit also felt the impact.

THE HAIL stones were described as the size of golf balls in some areas. Moderate property damage was reported, especially in the Ashville vicinity where windows were broken and tree limbs felled.

High winds and brief but heavy rain accompanied the hail. The immediate Circleville area escaped the larger variety of ice pellets, but did get some needed rainfall.

George Hamrick, Pickaway County Extension agent, said the most glaring evidence of the hail can now be seen in cornfields that were in the path of the storm. In many fields, eaves and stalks are shattered.

Hamrick said the yield in the fields may be cut by as much as 30 per cent. The soybean decrease could go as high as 35 per cent.

One resident of the Ashville community said a freshly dug potato laying on top the ground looked like it had exploded following the sudden downpour of hail. Sizeable depressions were noticed on the greens of the Upper Lansdowne Golf Course southeast of Ashville.

Space Bufts Irk Woman

NEW YORK (AP) — Satellite bufts have got Josephine Schlosser of Brooklyn in orbit with their constant telephone calls for tracking data.

She has no tracking data. What she does have — besides a jangling telephone and jangled nerves — is the same telephone number as one for a dial-a-satellite service at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

And if you dial the Washington number in New York City without first dialing the Washington area code, you get the Schlosser residence.

Mrs. Schlosser said the New York Telephone Co. suggested she take the receiver off the hook.

"But I can't do that," she said. "I might be getting some calls from my sister-in-law or somebody else in the family, or my husband might get some business calls."

Kennedy, in his new role as a New Yorker, would attend only the last day of the national convention, in time for a program in honor of his late brother, President John F. Kennedy, and a quiet party in memory of Kennedy's successful drive for the presidential nomination four years ago.

Kennedy has county leader support from more than enough counties to give him the nomination at the New York convention.

Farmers' Action To Pinch Purse

Search Pressed For Cincy Tot

CINCINNATI (AP) — "We're running down the leads—any leads we get—but right now none of them have worked out," the weary desk man at suburban Fairfax police station said early today as the search continued for little Debbie Dappen. Debbie, a four-year-old with her brown hair in a pixie-like cut, has been missing since she went out to play after lunch Wednesday.

Hundreds of volunteers scoured both Fairfax and neighboring Madisonville Wednesday night and until Thursday afternoon when village Mayor Ronald G. Cribbet dismissed them with thanks.

"What we're afraid of is that it was some sex pervert—or maybe some lady who's not right in her mind, some lady with no children of her own... No, that's what we're hoping for," said the deskman, patrolman Joe Berling, who had had four hours' sleep since Mrs. Rosemary Dappen, 28, first turned in an alarm late Wednesday afternoon.

Berling said there was a possibility Debbie had been kidnapped, but added that this was regarded as slight by police because "there are no rich families in Fairfax. If someone wanted to kidnap a child for ransom, he'd go to some other suburb, where the rich people live."

Debbie's father, Karl L. Dappen, 32, works for the American Automobile Association and he held a news conference in the Municipal Building after almost 30 hours of anxious waiting, pleading for his youngest child's return.

"I plead to you as a father—to anyone who has Debbie, please return her... return her safely... so the family might be whole again," Dappen spoke into the television camera.

Timetable Is Set Up By Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has a timetable all set in his fight for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate from New York, informed sources said today.

The sources said it awaits only an expected endorsement of Kennedy by Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, the state's top Democrat.

Kennedy's timetable, the sources said, would delay his resignation as attorney general until Sept. 1, date of the New York Democratic convention which will nominate the candidate to oppose Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating.

The attorney general would first resign as a Massachusetts delegate to the Democratic National Convention, which opens Monday in Atlantic City, N.J. He would be replaced by the wife of his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Kennedy, in his new role as a New Yorker, would attend only the last day of the national convention, in time for a program in honor of his late brother, President John F. Kennedy, and a quiet party in memory of Kennedy's successful drive for the presidential nomination four years ago.

Kennedy has county leader support from more than enough counties to give him the nomination at the New York convention.

Meat Price Rise Hinted

Livestock Strategy 'Gathering Steam'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pocketbooks of the housewives in Ohio may begin to be hit soon as effects of the National Farmers Organization holding action on livestock gathers steam.

This appeared evident today as the farmers' group stepped up its efforts at organizing units in the various counties, and carrying pleas of support to all of the state's livestock producers.

Bill Davis of Mount Sterling, an assistant national organizational director for the NFO, pointed out today that the holding action for livestock intended for markets is designed primarily to obtain contracts with the processors in order to stabilize prices in the future.

Davis declared that even if market prices soar, the organization will continue its holding actions until farmers get the assurance of contracts with the processors. Once contracts are agreed upon, Davis said, the livestock producers will guarantee the supply.

Currently units of the NFO are in 59 Ohio counties, with several more expected to be added soon. Davis said he had no idea now as to the total number of Ohio producers who are members of the NFO.

Producers tied up movement of livestock at a Marietta market Thursday. But since Thursday and Friday are slow days for livestock movement, the campaign of the producers is not expected to get into full swing until next week.

Davis said he expected it would be sometime within the next two weeks when the NFO's holding action would begin to show up in retail meat prices at various stores. He pointed out that many retailers have a good (Continued on Page Two)

Beauty Queen Slated for Pumpkin Fete

Carolyn McDonald, Nelsonville, is the new Miss Parade of the Hills of 1964. This makes her eligible to compete with 13 other Ohio festival queens at the Pumpkin Show in October.

Miss McDonald, 17, was crowned queen last night before a crowd of 10,000 attending the annual festival which ends Sunday at Nelsonville.

A green-eyed beauty with reddish-brown hair, Miss McDonald won her title in competition with girls from neighboring communities in Athens, Hocking and Perry counties.

Fourteen beauty queens will compete for the Miss Ohio Festival crown on Saturday night of the 1964 Pumpkin Show. This is the first year the parade and contest will be held. The winner will reign throughout the coming year.

Severe Storm Warning Out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Weather Bureau here today forecast severe thunderstorms for portions of West-Central Ohio.

It said scattered severe thunderstorms with large hail and locally damaging wind storms are expected in an area 30 miles northwest of Terre Haute, Ind., to 50 miles northeast of Columbus, Ohio, from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. EST today.

Appalachian Bill OK'd For Action in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Appalachian development bill has been cleared for House action but will not be taken up until after the coming one-week recess of Congress.

The $1 billion program for improving economic opportunities in an 11-state region, including part of Ohio, was cleared Thursday by the rules committee.

Lady's Cigar - Smoking Dumbfounds Men

BOSTON (AP) — Miss Rosemary O'Brien, red haired and blue eyed, sat across the dinner table in a Boston restaurant and said, "There's nothing like a fine cigar," as she put a panatela to her soft, full lips.

The reaction was immediate, but Miss O'Brien paid little attention.

"When you've been smoking

cigars as I have for four years, you get accustomed to having other women look at you in disbelief," said Miss O'Brien.

"Strangely, women aren't as shocked as the men when I smoke my cigars in public. The men appear to be absolutely dumbfounded. In public I constantly hear one man whisper to another 'Do you see what I see?'"

Miss O'Brien, in her early 30s and a resident of Kenmore Avenue, Chicago, came to Boston as an unwanted delegate to the fourth annual national convention of the Cigar Smokers of America, meeting today and Saturday.

The national organization — made up of humidorists in eight cities — would rather not have

"I smoke up to 10 cigars a day and like to be with men who smoke cigars. A lot of women are now taking up cigar smoking."

Miss O'Brien says she started smoking cigars when she playfully took a puff of a cigar her date was smoking as they drove in a car.

"I enjoyed it," she said, "and I've been smoking cigars since that night four years ago."

Conservancy Area Loses Early Backer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Greater Columbus, one of the early supporters of Scioto Conservancy District flood control, switched sides today and decided to back the U.S. Army Engineers' plan to build dams on Alum and Mill creeks.

The City of Columbus, the Chamber of Commerce and other groups are also backing the Army program.

Judge William Ammer of Pickaway County, one of the district's five judges, has suggested dissolving the SCD because, he says, property owners are not willing to be assessed for flood control.

However, over-all registration was lower than expected.

At the all-Negro schools, only 567 first-graders registered although officials had forecast an enrollment of 1,800.

Registration of white pupils was also down, with 1,705 enrollments out of an expected 2,000.

School authorities and civil rights leaders said they had no explanation for the decrease.

With the four-hour registration period, Jackson — the state's largest city — became the second public school system in Mississippi to desegregate under federal court orders. Seventeen Negroes enrolled last week at formerly all-white schools at Biloxi.

Wilderness Bill Gets Congress Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another of President Johnson's "must" pieces of legislation has received final congressional approval — the wilderness bill to set up a 9.2 million acre national preservation system on federal forest lands.

The compromise measure approved Thursday by both the House and the Senate permits some mining in the wilderness area.

Lady's Cigar - Smoking Dumbfounds Men

BOSTON (AP) — Miss Rosemary O'Brien, red haired and blue eyed, sat across the dinner table in a Boston restaurant and said, "There's nothing like a fine cigar," as she put a panatela to her soft, full lips.

The reaction was immediate, but Miss O'Brien paid little attention.

"When you've been smoking

cigars as I have for four years, you get accustomed to having other women look at you in disbelief," said Miss O'Brien.

"Strangely, women aren't as shocked as the men when I smoke my cigars in public. The men appear to be absolutely dumbfounded. In public I constantly hear one man whisper to another 'Do you see what I see?'"

Miss O'Brien, in her early 30s and a resident of Kenmore Avenue, Chicago, came to Boston as an unwanted delegate to the fourth annual national convention of the Cigar Smokers of America, meeting today and Saturday.

The national organization — made up of humidorists in eight cities — would rather not have women as members.

Miss O'Brien is in the unique position of having helped found the Chicago Humidor and expand its membership to more than 160.

"What's wrong with women?" asked Miss O'Brien, who stands 5 feet 5 and says she measures 37-25-35.

"I smoke up to 10 cigars a day and like to be with men who smoke cigars. A lot of women are now taking up cigar smoking."

Miss O'Brien says she started smoking cigars when she playfully took a puff of a cigar her date was smoking as they drove in a car.

"I enjoyed it," she said, "and I've been smoking cigars since that night four years ago."

Dems Urged To OK Court Rule on Apportionment

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Supreme Court decision that states must allot all their legislative seats by population should be strongly backed by the Democratic National Convention, the mayor of St. Louis told platform writers today.

The recommendation by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker brought into the open at convention preliminaries a party and section-splitting issue in which Congress is embroiled. But many party delegates hoped to keep it out of the presidential campaign.

Tucker led a delegation of mayors testifying on urban problems. He told the platform committee he is personally "greatly elated" at the high court's ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned by population, so that voters in one area do not enjoy a disproportionate advantage over those in another.

He said he would like to see the platform contain "a strong statement clearly backing the Supreme Court decision."

But the House passed Wednesday, 218-175, a bill that would strip federal courts of jurisdiction in reapportionment cases. This measure now is pending in the Senate, which is also snarled over another proposal to delay court-ordered reapportionment. Proposed constitutional amendments to overturn the decision have been introduced in both chambers of Congress.

The Republican National Convention last month adopted a platform plank calling for a constitutional amendment to allow states with two-house legislatures to apportion one house on a basis other than population.

The committee, trying to avoid a party-rending fight over a civil rights plank, wrestled with a problem of wording:

How far could a Democratic national platform go in trusting state and local officials to carry out the federal civil rights law?

The problem of wording was before the platform committee which moved its operations Thursday to Atlantic City, where the Democratic National Convention opens Monday.

Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia roused the committee to applauding enthusiasm Thursday with a plea for a civil rights plank pledging the party to support "the law of the land."

But Sanders, who personally opposed the public accommodations section of the law, also said the spirit of the law should be carried out "through local people in their own local communities, and not through fear of federal force or federal intimidation."

Johnson Lauds Quality Of U.S. Military Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today that America's fighting men not only are the best in the world but are "also thinking men — devoted to peace, stern in their respect for our democratic values."

Johnson spoke at a joint convocation of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces and the National War College at Ft. McNair.

As he has in the past, he said that this country today is "stronger in every aspect of our defense than we were 3 years ago."

He said a military career today demands a new order of talent, training, imagination and versatility, adding: "Our military men have those qualities in abundance."

Johnson said that in the American system there is no more sensitive relationship than between the military and political, but he added that there is a strong mutual confidence between military men and civilian political leaders.

Johnson disclosed that he has directed the secretary of defense to expedite his review of such matters as housing, medical care, pay and allowances "so that we can, at the earliest moment, take whatever steps both human equity and national defense require to enhance the standing and morale of those who defend us."

He also said he is directing the secretary of defense to review the educational system and major schools within the services and the opportunities now offered for continued civilian education while in the service, in order to broaden and strengthen these programs.

Johnson told what he described as "an audience of men who know their country's full strength and the meaning of that strength" that the next 20 years will demand more of America's military men, diplomats, and political leadership than the last 20 years.

"Together we shall continue to face — as we face now — a world contest: Freedom against totalitarianism, the sovereignty of the many against a sovereign few, the rule of law against the rule of men," he said.

This country's purpose, in that contest, he said, "is to serve our rightful interests while we keep the peace with honor." It also is our purpose, he said, to nourish in other peoples the spirit of liberty "and to help where we can when their liberty is in danger."

He Didn't Bet, But He Gets Payoff

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Lancaster man who, authorities said, didn't bet on the races but collected anyway, was bound today on a larceny charge.

Municipal Judge Fred Shoemaker set bond for Paul E. Dittoe, 49, at $600 after Dittoe pleaded innocent of larceny by trick.

Sgt. Vernon Walker told the judge how the scheme worked: Dittoe, acting for two men he met in a bar, went to Scioto Downs harness track Wednesday night. There he cashed in a $10 ticket the two had altered by pasting the winning number on the stub after the race was over.

Dittoe walked away from the window with $60, which he turned over to his two colleagues.

The next race, however, sheriff's deputies were waiting. Track officials had spotted the bogus stubs.

The two promoters are still being sought.

And Dittoe probably wishes the payoff hadn't been quite so big. With $59 or less involved, he could have been charged with a misdemeanor. The charge he now faces is a felony.

Band Practice Starts Monday

Autumn marching and music practices for the Circleville High School Band will begin 6:30 p. m. Monday in the music room at the high school.

The announcement was made today by Truman Eberly, director, as a reminder to all new and veteran members of the band.

Drum majorette Karen Sampson, head majorette Donna Pontius, and majorettes Ellen Jenkins, Nancy Pickel, Lynn Rickey and Linda Conrad are spending this week at majorette camp at Butler University in Indianapolis, Ind. New drills and routines will be learned by the girls for the coming year.

Eberly said new music has been purchased for the fall marching season and is ready for the practice sessions.

The band will present its first public performance at the Band Mothers Preview of the football season on Sept. 4.

Yellowbud Man

Bound To Jury

Clarence Castle of Yellowbud was bound to the Grand Jury by Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb yesterday after the accused entered a plea of guilty to issuing a check when he had no bank account.

The charges were filed by D. E. McDonald. Bond was set at $500 by Judge Lamb.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., said hog shipments through country buying stations fell off sharply Thursday in the first full day of the holding action while cattle marketings were down somewhat.

For the first time since the Chicago Mercantile Exchange inaugurated futures trading in pork three years ago, frozen pork futures at Chicago rose the daily permissible limit of 1.5 cents a pound.

Most of the country's 12 major markets reported no abnormal drop in livestock receipts, but the estimates at interior Iowa and Minnesota markets were decidedly lower. Staley said they were down about one half.

Armour and Co. announced Wednesday night a layoff of 300 of 375 workers at its south St. Paul, Minn., plant. The company said it planned to cut its daily kill from 1,200 to 720 cattle and from 5,400 to 2,400-2,600 hogs.

However, a spokesman for Swift and Co., another major South St. Paul packer, said, "we will not be laying off workers because of the NFO."

The holding action is the NFO's first since that of 1962, which lasted 33 days.

It is using what Staley called "Minutemen" to check and report on market movements.

Watchers in large numbers turned out to check packing plants in Minnesota and the Dakotas and at cross roads of the states.

Staley said he was pleased to note that so-called pickets were acting "in a fine manner with no violence."

Shaky Truce On Cyprus Given Jolt

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Renewed fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, and a government charge that Turkish planes flew over Cyprus, threatened today to shatter the shaky truce on this Mediterranean island.

No casualties were reported in the fighting Thursday near Ktima in southwest Cyprus. Shooting between the communal factions lasted about an hour, a U.N. spokesman said.

Turkish reconnaissance flights were reported in the Kokkina-Mansoura area where two weeks ago Greek Cypriot advances on Turkish positions triggered retaliatory air strikes by Turkey.

A U.N.-sponsored cease-fire has been in effect since the Turkish assaults.

Turkey had agreed to suspend its reconnaissance missions but warned that new attacks by Greek Cypriots would lead to their resumption. If the flights over the northwest coast were made by Turkish airplanes, as the Greek Cypriot government charges, they would be the first in 10 days.

LBJ Aides, Republicans Clash on Defense Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a political battlefront ranging from Capitol Hill to the Pentagon the Johnson administration clashed anew with Republicans over its Southeast Asian and defense policies.

The fresh outbreak of sharp skirmishing reinforced belief the presidential campaign, still not officially under way, may turn into a long, hot autumn.

The Defense Department and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield led the administration counterattack Thursday. And GOP congressional leaders accused the government of pursuing a "no win" policy in south Viet Nam in an effort to postpone tough decisions until after the election.

The Pentagon issued a long statement challenging in detail data and statements of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater on future U.S. nuclear capability.

On Wednesday, Goldwater repeated and elaborated on his previous charge that if present defense policies continue American "deliverable nuclear capacity may be cut by 90 per cent" in the 1970s.

"It is false and, if the senator would trouble to inform himself, he would learn that it is false," the Pentagon retorted in its statement, which it said was issued after consultation with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Goldwater has argued that the administration is phasing out manned bombers in favor of missiles, which Goldwater said carry much lighter nuclear loads than bombers.

The Pentagon denied a "wholly unjustified" that manned bombers are to be phased out.

GOP leaders in the Senate and House, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen and Rep. Charles A. Halleck, followed up the Goldwater blasts at the administration with one of their own.

Their statement, read at a news conference, contended "there has been no satisfactory explanation" why the President announced the U.S. naval air strikes at the North Vietnamese PT boat fleet before the attack was under way. Two U.S. planes were shot down.

Both Dirksen and Halleck said

the South Viet Nam war "continues to go from bad to worse" and is beginning "to resemble the incredible 'no-win' war fought in Korea more than a decade ago."

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mansfield was getting in some whacks of his own. He accused Goldwater of making "gross distortions" about the nation's nuclear capacity and of an "offhand interpretation" of administration orders to the 7th Fleet during the Gulf of Tonkin crisis.

Johnson told what he described as "an audience of men who know their country's full strength and the meaning of that strength" that the next 20 years will demand more of America's military men, diplomats, and political leadership than the last 20 years.

"Together we shall continue to face — as we face now — a world contest: Freedom against totalitarianism, the sovereignty of the many against a sovereign few, the rule of law against the rule of men," he said.

This country's purpose, in that contest, he said, "is to serve our rightful interests while we keep the peace with honor." It also is our purpose, he said, to nourish in other peoples the spirit of liberty "and to help where we can when their liberty is in danger."

Barry Urges Strong Social Security Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater told the Senate today he favors the Social Security system, wants to see it strengthened and therefore will vote for a 5 per cent increase in benefits.

"I have voted for genuine improvement in the system since I have been in the Senate and I plan to do so now," the Arizona said in a speech.

He attacked the Johnson administration's proposal to provide health care for the aged through Social Security.

"We shall not preserve the Social Security program if we saddle it with unnecessary new burdens, such as medicare," Goldwater said. "We penalize every senior citizen if we thus bankrupt the system that protects him."

Goldwater's views on Social Security and on health care are certain to be issues in the presidential campaign. He has in the past registered both his approval of "a sound Social Security system" and said it should not be coupled with health care.

But he also has said — in Keene, N.H. last Jan. 22 — that "I think we would be better off with Social Security as a voluntary setup." And in the race for the Republican presidential nomination Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York charged that Goldwater would wreck Social Security.

Band Practice Starts Monday

Autumn marching and music practices for the Circleville High School Band will begin 6:30 p. m. Monday in the music room at the high school.

The announcement was made today by Truman Eberly, director, as a reminder to all new and veteran members of the band.

Drum majorette Karen Sampson, head majorette Donna Pontius, and majorettes Ellen Jenkins, Nancy Pickel, Lynn Rickey and Linda Conrad are spending this week at majorette camp at Butler University in Indianapolis, Ind. New drills and routines will be learned by the girls for the coming year.

Eberly said new music has been purchased for the fall marching season and is ready for the practice sessions.

The band will present its first public performance at the Band Mothers Preview of the football season on Sept. 4.

Yellowbud Man Bound To Jury

Clarence Castle of Yellowbud was bound to the Grand Jury by Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb yesterday after the accused entered a plea of guilty to issuing a check when he had no bank account.

The charges were filed by D. E. McDonald. Bond was set at $500 by Judge Lamb.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., said hog shipments through country buying stations fell off sharply Thursday in the first full day of the holding action while cattle marketings were down somewhat.

For the first time since the Chicago Mercantile Exchange inaugurated futures trading in pork three years ago, frozen pork futures at Chicago rose the daily permissible limit of 1.5 cents a pound.

Most of the country's 12 major markets reported no abnormal drop in livestock receipts, but the estimates at interior Iowa and Minnesota markets were decidedly lower. Staley said they were down about one half.

Armour and Co. announced Wednesday night a layoff of 300 of 375 workers at its south St. Paul, Minn., plant. The company said it planned to cut its daily kill from 1,200 to 720 cattle and from 5,400 to 2,400-2,600 hogs.

However, a spokesman for Swift and Co., another major South St. Paul packer, said, "we will not be laying off workers because of the NFO."

The holding action is the NFO's first since that of 1962, which lasted 33 days.

It is using what Staley called "Minutemen" to check and report on market movements.

Watchers in large numbers turned out to check packing plants in Minnesota and the Dakotas and at cross roads of the states.

Staley said he was pleased to note that so-called pickets were acting "in a fine manner with no violence."

Shaky Truce On Cyprus Given Jolt

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Renewed fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, and a government charge that Turkish planes flew over Cyprus, threatened today to shatter the shaky truce on this Mediterranean island.

No casualties were reported in the fighting Thursday near Ktima in southwest Cyprus. Shooting between the communal factions lasted about an hour, a U.N. spokesman said.

Turkish reconnaissance flights were reported in the Kokkina-Mansoura area where two weeks ago Greek Cypriot advances on Turkish positions triggered retaliatory air strikes by Turkey.

A U.N.-sponsored cease-fire has been in effect since the Turkish assaults.

Turkey had agreed to suspend its reconnaissance missions but warned that new attacks by Greek Cypriots would lead to their resumption. If the flights over the northwest coast were made by Turkish airplanes, as the Greek Cypriot government charges, they would be the first in 10 days.

LBJ Aides, Republicans Clash on Defense Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a political battlefield ranging from Capitol Hill to the Pentagon the Johnson administration clashed anew with Republicans over its Southeast Asian and defense policies.

The fresh outbreak of sharp skirmishing reinforced belief the presidential campaign, still not officially under way, may turn into a long, hot autumn.

The Defense Department and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield led the administration counterattack Thursday. And GOP congressional leaders accused the government of pursuing a "no win" policy in south Viet Nam in an effort to postpone tough decisions until after the election.

The Pentagon issued a long statement challenging in detail data and statements of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater on future U.S. nuclear capability.

On Wednesday, Goldwater repeated and elaborated on his previous charge that if present defense policies continue American "deliverable nuclear capacity may be cut by 90 per cent" in the 1970s.

"It is false and, if the senator would trouble to inform himself, he would learn that it is false," the Pentagon retorted in its statement, which it said was issued after consultation with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Goldwater has argued that the administration is phasing out manned bombers in favor of missiles, which Goldwater said carry much lighter nuclear loads than bombers.

The Pentagon denied a "wholly unjustified" that manned bombers are to be phased out.

GOP leaders in the Senate and House, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen and Rep. Charles A. Halleck, followed up the Goldwater blasts at the administration with one of their own.

Their statement, read at a news conference, contended "there has been no satisfactory explanation" why the President announced the U.S. naval air strikes at the North Vietnamese PT boat fleet before the attack was under way. Two U.S. planes were shot down.

Both Dirksen and Halleck said

the South Viet Nam war "continues to go from bad to worse" and is beginning "to resemble the incredible 'no-win' war fought in Korea more than a decade ago."

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mansfield was getting in some whacks of his own. He accused Goldwater of making "gross distortions" about the nation's nuclear capacity and of an "offhand interpretation" of administration orders to the 7th Fleet during the Gulf of Tonkin crisis.

Stock Prices Up, Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralls and airlines made sizable gains in an irregularly rising stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Cigarette stocks resumed their recent upswing. Steels edged higher on balance. Motors were mixed as suspense continued about the auto labor situation.

Fractional gains were the rule for most key stocks but advances of a point or more were scored by some of the leading rails and airlines.

Railroads were spurred by another ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, this one rescinding, in effect, a recent decision calling for indefinite postponement of the Nickel Plate-Norfolk & Western merger.

Ohioan Only One of 26 Eyeing Harem

BEERSHEBA, Israel (AP)—The Dayton woman who wanted to join the harem of a wealthy Arab sheik isn't the only one. An aide to Sheik Suleiman El Huzail says 24 American women and an Australian have joined Mrs. Mary Miller of Dayton, Ohio, in seeking to join the harem.

Huzail, nearly 90, is a desert patriarch who has had 39 wives. But the sheik still insists he isn't interested in any more women, that he wants "to be left in peace."

Mrs. Miller, a divorced mother of two, said Monday she replied to an advertisement in a U.S. magazine. She said it offered $50,000 for a woman to spend a year in the sheik's harem.

The sheik admitted advertising for a wife in an American magazine in 1958, but said none of the applicants met his requirements. He has never said what these were.

False Divorce Said Fixed by Councilman

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Northfield woman has accused Cleveland Councilman Michael Fatica of arranging a false divorce for her by allegedly doctoring the journal entry of the court order of a Summit County judge.

The woman, Mrs. Florence H. Smola, 27, Wednesday brought a $40,000 damage suit in common pleas court against Fatica and his law associate, Lawrence Lankskroner.

Neither of the defendants was available for comment.

Mrs. Smola accused the two lawyers in her petition of "negligence, misfeasance and nonfeasance" in their handling of an alimony action she brought against her husband, Frank C. Smola, in Summit County Common Pleas Court in 1957 and in a divorce action she brought in 1960.

She alleged in her complaint that Fatica failed to journalize an alimony order for more than 20 months after it was issued. When Fatica finally filed a journal entry he allegedly changed the alimony order to a divorce decree, Mrs. Smola charged. This led her to believe she was legally divorced, she contended.

Fatica, a Democrat, was discharged last month from University Hospitals where he was treated for a nervous disorder. He is awaiting trial in Cleveland on bribery charges involving a liquor permit transfer application.

The meeting will conclude Sunday with ritualistic instruction under the direction of Charles Campbell of Berea. Fred Lees of Maumee is convention chairman.

In addition to Rickey, other members of the local lodge attending the conclave are: J. R. Valentine, Leo Morgan, Marshall Winner and Dr. David Goldschmidt.

Man, 26, Is Accused In Death of Child, 4

CLEVELAND (AP) — James R. Newton, 26, of North Royalton, was being held in Westlake Jail in default of bonds totaling $5,250 in connection with the accidental death of a 4-year-old girl.

Newton was charged Thursday with manslaughter and for driving with an expired license. Police said he was driving the auto that struck and killed Cheryl Van Wormer as she crossed the street in front of her Westlake home Wednesday night.

In 1961 Hurricane Carla smashed into the Texas and Louisiana gulf coast causing insured property damage totaling $100 million.

There will be 95 million passenger cars registered in the nation by 1976 compared with about 68 million today, the American Automobile Association forecasts.

Masculine Trend in Fashions Pondered

NEW YORK (AP) — Paradoxically, while Frenchmen glory in la difference, French couturiers are diminishing it by decreeing trousers and more trousers for women.

During a fashion year in which near-nudity also is the vogue, sociologists, fashion historians, and designers too, are pondering the significance of this seemingly masculine trend in the Paris collections just introduced.

A year ago, the dean of American couturiers, Norman Norell, created two trouser suits "for travel" only. Their success prompted him to add more to his collection this season, even though he admits he personally is not fond of long trousers on women.

So many women bought and wore Norell's pants that other American designers took to tailoring them too, for travel, or anything.

Then in Paris these last few weeks Andre Courreges, Pierre Cardin, Jacques Esterel, Coco Chanel, Balenciaga — almost every couturier but a stubborn young Yves St. Laurent — brought forth tight-legged, or bell-bottomed, hip-slung or high-waisted, creased or creaseless, long pants in every fabric from flannel to lace.

In London, fashion historian James Laver told a trade publication:

"It is typical of a matriarchy when the sexes get very close together in clothes that women being the breadwinners can now afford to choose husbands who attract them as men, not as providers. Men, therefore, could begin to dress for physical attraction."

That seeming feminine extreme in physical attraction, the bared bosoms trend, had prompted Laver to speak up. The trousers trend does not contradict this vogue, he said in effect.

fect, because women are subconsciously playing down their sex by demystifying it.

"Females can't find a dominant male anymore," is the reason why women are wearing the long pants, in the opinion of Michigan State University sociologist David Gottlieb.

The ogre destroying masculinity, he contends, is modern society's worshipfulness of the organization man with his clean fingernails and white collar. "He smells nice, never sweats, only perspires, and surrenders his young sons to a world of females."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's not so much what's happened as what hasn't happened that's kept political interest bubbling between the Republicans' convention in July and next week's Democratic convention in Atlantic City.

What hasn't happened has been answers to questions like these which have taken up a lot of newspaper space:

Will Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy run for the Senate from New York where he is not a resident? Who's President Johnson's choice for his vice presidential running-mate? Will Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater ever debate?

These uncertainties shouldn't last long since Johnson will have to give an answer on debating, Kennedy will have to announce his decision soon and Johnson's running-mate will be named before the convention ends.

But while Johnson and Goldwater have butted heads in these past five weeks neither man has quickened pulses with the brilliance of his political utterances.

In this campaign there may be some brilliant political maneuvering but hardly brilliant statements since neither Johnson nor Goldwater is polished in phrase or delivery.

There's a good explanation for the small excitement so far. Both men have had to use these weeks preparing for the campaign which starts rolling in September.

Beside their organizational problems, Goldwater had to spend time trying to restore unity to the Republican party while Johnson had a lot to keep busy with in Congress. His record there will be a big campaign item.

Nevertheless, it's the way the two men have butted heads which foreshadows if not a sparkling campaign, at least a rough-house one.

Goldwater and his team have left little doubt they will go after Johnson with bare fists although up to now they have done it in a scattered and limited rather than in a persistent and concentrated way.

Their sharpest attacks have actually been reactions to something Johnson did, like his handling of the North Vietnamese attacks on U.S. naval vessels and the release of information on his personal fortune.

At this moment the great unknown of the campaign is how far Johnson will go in slugging it out personally with Goldwater. He may try to stay aloof while letting those around him go after Goldwater with their long knives.

It looks like a good bet, judging from what's happened already, that Johnson will do his share of personally trying to scalp the Arizona.

One good example: His reaction when Goldwater seemed to imply Johnson had given his naval commanders a blank check to use nuclear weapons against North Viet Nam if they thought that appropriate.

Johnson called this "unjustified and irresponsible." Still, this was a reaction to an attack on him by Goldwater who so far has been far more aggressive in commenting on his rival.

The fact that Johnson could be so irritated by Goldwater that he'd reply with a personal attack — the "irresponsible" charge — is a good indication it can happen again and probably will.

Ohioan Only One of 26 Eyeing Harem

BEERSHEBA, Israel (AP)—The Dayton woman who wanted to join the harem of a wealthy Arab sheik isn't the only one. An aide to Sheik Suleiman El Huzeil says 24 American women and an Australian have joined Mrs. Mary Miller of Dayton, Ohio, in seeking to join the harem.

Huzeil, nearly 90, is a desert patriarch who has had 39 wives. But the sheik still insists he isn't interested in any more women, that he wants "to be left in peace."

Mrs. Miller, a divorced mother of two, said Monday she replied to an advertisement in a U.S. magazine. She said it offered $50,000 for a woman to spend a year in the sheik's harem.

The sheik admitted advertising for a wife in an American magazine in 1958, but said none of the applicants met his requirements. He has never said what these were.

False Divorce Said Fixed by Councilman

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Northfield woman has accused Cleveland Councilman Michael Fatica of arranging a false divorce for her by allegedly doctoring the journal entry of the court order of a Summit County judge.

The woman, Mrs. Florence H. Smola, 27, Wednesday brought a $40,000 damage suit in common pleas court against Fatica and his law associate, Lawrence Lankskroner.

Neither of the defendants was available for comment.

Mrs. Smola accused the two lawyers in her petition of "negligence, misfeasance and nonfeasance" in their handling of an alimony action she brought against her husband, Frank C. Smola, in Summit County Common Pleas Court in 1957 and in a divorce action she brought in 1960.

She alleged in her complaint that Fatica failed to journalize an alimony order for more than 20 months after it was issued. When Fatica finally filed a journal entry he allegedly changed the alimony order to a divorce decree, Mrs. Smola charged. This led her to believe she was legally divorced, she contended.

Fatica, a Democrat, was discharged last month from University Hospitals where he was treated for a nervous disorder. He is awaiting trial in Cleveland on bribery charges involving a liquor permit transfer application.

The meeting will conclude Sunday with ritualistic instruction under the direction of Charles Campbell of Berea. Fred Lees of Maumee is convention chairman.

In addition to Rickey, other members of the local lodge attending the conclave are: J. R. Valentine, Leo Morgan, Marshall Winner and Dr. David Goldschmidt.

Local Delegation Attending Ohio Elks Fall Conference

Dr. William Rickey, exalted ruler, heads a delegation of Circleville Elks Lodge members attending the 35th annual fall conference of the Ohio Elks Assn.

Slated for today, Saturday and Sunday, the meetings will be held at the Nationwide Inn at Columbus and will draw delegates from 95 Ohio lodges.

Carleton L. Riddle of Willard, president of the 55,000-member association, will preside over the sessions.

Franklin Fitzpatrick of Chicago, grand secretary of the order, will be featured speaker at the three-day meet which will see plans for Elk charities and humanitarian projects discussed.

Among the expected speakers are: Robert Sesney of Toledo, Frank Earley of Salem, James A. Ryan of Euclid, Edward L. Clark of Parma, John D. Quinn of Sidney, C. Ross Cline of Chillicothe, Ernest Widner of Bellevue, E. Paul Howard of Alliance and Floyd Shambaugh of North Canton.

At a 2 p. m. general business session Saturday grand lodge awards will be presented to outstanding Elk lodges and committees in the state.

Additional scholarship awards to Ohio students are expected to be announced. Last May, the Ohio Elks Association in cooperation with the Elks National Foundation presented $5,400 in scholarship and leadership grants.

The meeting will conclude Sunday with ritualistic instruction under the direction of Charles Campbell of Berea.

Fred Lees of Maumee is convention chairman.

In addition to Rickey, other members of the local lodge attending the conclave are: J. R. Valentine, Leo Morgan, Marshall Winner and Dr. David Goldschmidt.

Masculine Trend in Fashions Pondered

NEW YORK (AP)—Paradoxically, while Frenchmen glory in la difference, French couturiers are diminishing it by decreeing trousers and more trousers for women.

During a fashion year in which near-nudity also is the vogue, sociologists, fashion historians, and designers too, are pondering the significance of this seemingly masculine trend in the Paris collections just introduced.

A year ago, the dean of American couturiers, Norman Norell, created tweed trouser suits "for travel" only. Their success prompted him to add more to his collection this season, even though he admits he personally is not fond of long trousers on women.

So many women bought and wore Norell's pants that other American designers took to tailoring them too, for travel, or anything.

Then in Paris these last few weeks Andre Courreges, Pierre Cardin, Jacques Esterel, Coco Chanel, Balenciaga — almost every couturier but a stubborn young Yves St. Laurent — brought forth tight-legged, or bell-bottomed, hip-slung or high-waisted, creased or creaseless, long pants in every fabric from flannel to lace.

In London, fashion historian James Laver told a trade publication: "It is typical of a matriarchy when the sexes get very close together in clothes that women being the breadwinners can now afford to choose husbands who attract them as men, not as providers. Men, therefore, could begin to dress for physical attraction."

That seeming feminine extreme in physical attraction, the bared bosoms trend, had prompted Laver to speak up. The trousers trend does not contradict this vogue, he said in effect, because women are subconsciously playing down their sex by demystifying it.

"Females can't find a dominant male anymore," is the reason why women are wearing the long pants, in the opinion of Michigan State University sociologist David Gottlieb.

The ogre destroying masculinity, he contends, is modern society's worshipfulness of the organization man with his clean fingernails and white collar.

"He smells nice, never sweats, only perspires, and surrenders his young sons to a world of females."

Canada's Contribution

In spite of its small size and relatively unimportant contribution to free world defense, the Royal Canadian Navy has done some valuable work in naval war research.

The result of some of this research was demonstrated the other day when an officer in the Swedish navy saw a demonstration of the RCN's "Bearcat" device. This was a preliminary move before the Scandinavian country buys rights to produce it for its own ships.

The Bearcat is a helicopter landing device that enables the whirlybirds to land safely on landing areas abroad small ships which may be running in a heavy seaway.

In addition to the Bearcat, the RCN has developed a variable depth sonar system, done valuable work on hydrofoils and created the distinctive hull design for new Canadian destroyers.

This design, which returns the minimum radar echo, may be its greatest contribution to naval warfare.

Bugged Sax

The conclusion-jumping record must go to Izvestia, the official Soviet government newspaper. That devout defender of the red faith complains that the American Central Intelligence Agency "uses any possibility of sending its agents into socialist countries."

The proof? During the Benny Goodman Band's 1962 tour of the workers' paradise, a "prominent Soviet musician"—the paper didn't identify him—went backstage and told a Goodman bandman he didn't like the way one piece had been played.

The American explained, according to Izvestia, that four musicians had been added to the band on the eve of its departure and therefore there hadn't been enough time to rehearse. To the conspiratorial mind, this proved the four were spies.

The assumption is not only absurd, but the supposed fact on which it was based is untrue. All 17 bandmen were personally selected by Goodman, were thoroughly investigated in advance by the Soviet secret police (this is a revelation), and then practiced together for three weeks before leaving for Russia. Even if this fantastic spying charge were true, it would prove only that American musicians have as much right to spy as Russian diplomats—and that the Soviet counterspy checkers uppers goofed.

'Martyr's Mount' Story Told

By RELMAN MORIN
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago in the cold cathedral in Cuernavaca, Mexico, a little-known chapter in Christian history suddenly came to light.

Workmen were scraping paint from the cathedral walls, preparatory to renovation. As the successive layers were removed, a set of murals began to emerge. Further cleaning showed the murals cover huge expanses of wall space on both sides of the cathedral. They lay hidden for perhaps 300 years.

They depict a religious tragedy, not in Mexico, but on the other side of the world — in Japan. It is a scene of execution, of Japanese and Europeans dying by crucifixion or beheading. The contours of the ground in one mural strongly suggest that the site was a hill that came to be known as "Martyr's Mount," near Nagasaki.

This is the story:
Toward the end of the 16th century, the rulers of Japan, being anxious for trade with the West, granted concessions to the Spaniards and Portuguese. At first, they permitted the Europeans to build churches and convert the Japanese.

The friars were notably successful. In a very few years, they converted thousands of Japanese. Some estimates put the figure at 300,000.

At this point, the shoguns — rulers — began to be uneasy — not on religious but political grounds. They apparently came to suspect that the Japanese Christians were a potential "fifth column" in the event of trouble with Spain.

Thereupon, edicts were issued, ordering the friars, to leave Japan on pain of death, and designed to extirpate the foreign faith, root and branch, from Japanese soil.

The edicts met almost total defiance. The friars continued to preach openly, and the people continued to worship in the churches.

Then the terror began. At first, it took the form of executions.

A more terrible sequence followed — torture. The effort now was to force the Christians to recant. Very few did so. Even Japanese children, when offered pardon, replied that they preferred to die with their parents. An eyewitness, a Frenchman who was not involved, said "the poor Christians endured the tortures with a constancy to a miracle."

A Japanese account says 200,000 persons were "punished."

Christianity, to all appearances, vanished from Japan.

But there is a sequel, a testimonial to the human spirit.

In the 19th century, when Westerners returned to Japan, they found that Christianity had not died out there. A few Japanese had been practicing it in secret for more than two centuries.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — What Americans are doing with their money this summer and what they plan to do shines forth today in a spate of government and private statistics.

—Bank customers are pushing their money into and out of their checking accounts at a faster rate than earlier this year, and much faster than a year ago.

—Stock traders are betting less now on a drop in prices than they were just a month back.

—Fewer people are starting new homes than earlier this year, or this time last year.

—Stockholders are getting slightly bigger cash dividend payments this summer than last.

—Businessmen are ordering more durable goods from manufacturers again after a two-month slowdown and the backlog of unfilled orders has risen — to promise brisk activity in the weeks and months ahead.

It adds up to a mixed picture, but with the bullish-minded still in the foreground.

The ways of people with their checking accounts are revealed by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in a report today on demand deposit turnover. This shows that in 337 localities outside the major money centers the velocity rate increased 2½ per cent in July over June, and 3 per cent over July 1963.

In New York City the turnover rate went up 10 per cent in the month to a new high, money going in and out of checking accounts 22 per cent faster than a year ago.

In the six other leading financial centers — Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco and Los Angeles — bank customers turned over their accounts at a 4½ per cent faster rate in July than in June, and 5 per cent higher than last year.

The turnover rate sheds light on the general economic activity and on the effective supply of money available to the economy.

The New York Stock Exchange reports that in the month ended Aug. 14 the short interest dropped by 239,735 shares to a total of 6,400,795. This is a measure of bearish sentiment, since it shows that in the issues involved some traders expect to buy back their borrowed stock at a lower price. The drop in the total reflects a slight dimming of bearish sentiment. Since only 0.1 per cent of all shares listed are involved, the bearish element seems pretty slim just now.

Housing starts are another matter. They dropped 5 per cent in July from June and were 4 per cent below a year ago. For the May-July period starts were 2 per cent below the 1963 period.

Stockholders got cash dividend payments in July totalling $1,158,000,000, compared to $1,082,000,000 in the 1963 month.

All in all, the money continues to flow at a faster than usual rate this summer, and this gives businessmen — except maybe home builders — high hopes for the autumn.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CONGRESSMAN John Lindsay of New York tells about a shop owner with 148 employees who proposed a profit sharing and pension plan—provided every employee signified his approval in writing. 147 men signed at once, but one maverick refused, thereby nullifying the entire project. For two weeks the hold-out persisted, then one day marched into the boss' office and declared meekly, "I've decided to sign." "Good," enthused the boss, "but what finally persuaded you to change your mind?"

Explained the hold-out: "This morning the two huskiest members of the union grabbed me by the collar and told me, 'If you haven't signed up by 10:30 this morning we'll break both your arms, break both your legs, and knock out all your teeth.' Well, Boss, nobody had ever bothered to explain the plan to me so clearly before."

"Remember," the late Mayor Curley of Boston always advised his young political proteges, "that every time you do a favor for a constituent, you make nine enemies and one ingrate."

San Levenson received this note from his boy at camp: "Dear Dad: We've been taking some pretty long hikes this week. Please send my other sneaker."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Q: What does "dizziness" really mean?

A: Dizziness, technically known as vertigo, creates a false sensation of circular motion, when actually everything is standing still. The patient may feel that he is turning or that objects are turning around him. This causes a feeling of unsteadiness and loss of balance.

Dizziness is a term which is often incorrectly used to describe headache, blurring of the eyes, lightheadedness, faintness or similar disturbances.

Q: What are the causes of dizziness?

A: The center of balance, or equilibrium, lies in three tiny canals, deep within the inner ear.

This sensitive balance center can be disturbed by any of the following conditions:

- 1) ear infections
- 2) eye conditions
- 3) neurological (nerve) disorders and Meniere's disease
- 4) arteriosclerosis
- 5) high and low blood pressure
- 6) sensitivity to drugs, alcohol, caffeine, and allergies
- 7) motion sickness
- 8) excessive fluid intake

These are only a few of the conditions that can cause real vertigo or dizziness.

Q: Is dizziness dangerous?

A: Dizziness is an excellent warning signal of the body to let know that something is wrong. Since dizziness is only a

The 'Veep' Image

By John Chamberlain

If, as seems most certain, President Johnson intends to continue his cultivation of the bigger businessmen throughout his campaign, the problem of scrubbing up the image of whoever will be his Vice Presidential nominee will surely vex him to the end.

The reason for this is that the Democratic Party in the North and West, the regions which must provide the Vice Presidential choice, has been a labor party ever since its failure to win with Wall Streeter John W. Davis in 1924. The prominent Democrats north of Maryland and Kentucky, minus a Senator Frank Lausche or two, all have records of at least part-time obedience to a Leftist Americans for Democratic Action line. They have been Welfare Staters of the more spendthrift type.

It wasn't so many years ago that Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota was saying that "I learned more about economics from one South Dakota dust storm than I did in all my years in college." No doubt the experience of a dust storm can be salutary. But if government insurance against floods, earthquakes, fires, hurricanes, and dry cycles were all there is to economics, it would make sense for businessmen to set up shop in natural calamity area on the general theory that all bad years would be subsidized. The conclusion that Hubert Humphrey drew from his Dakota dust storm when he was mixing milk shakes for his father in a prairie small-town drugstore was diametrically opposed to the common sense of economics, which tells most men to go into business where conditions are, on balance, favorable. Humphrey's economics have been of the "spend, spend" type, with the money going to sustain people in ventures that have only the remotest chance of paying off. "Dust bowl economics" has envisioned the whole nation—and, indeed, much of the outside world—as a charity ward, with Washington acting as a compulsory United Fund for sucking in the dollars and dispensing them to keep profitless businesses going.

Eugene McCarthy, the other Minnesota Senator, has never put his economic theories into crude dust bowl terms. But his book, "Frontiers in American Democracy," written some years ago, goes pretty far towards advocating "good" is terms of federal aid to just about everything.

Both Humphrey and McCarthy, to do them justice, have lately shown a disposition to retreat from extreme Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) positions. In his newest book, "The Cause is Mankind," which was timed to hit the retail counters on the eve of the Democratic convention, Humphrey blossoms forth as a believer in tax cuts. He also insists that he is no enemy of free enterprise. As for McCarthy, he has joined with another Democratic Senator, Hartke of Indiana, in calling for a reconsideration of the whole philosophy that has put the central government in Washington in the position of depending for revenues on onerous Federal excise taxes. It is McCarthy's idea that if Washington would relinquish the field of excise taxation to the states, local governments would find a source of revenues that would enable them to take care of many needs that now require federal assistance.

So, in effect, we have the outlines of a "new" Humphrey and a "new" McCarthy. This refurbishing of images is nicely calculated to appeal to businessmen who might be tempted to join the Independent Republicans and Citizens for Johnson organization set up by Walter S. Mack, former president of the Pepsi-Cola Company.

The logical fallacy involved in this refurbishing of images is that tax cuts must be compensated for by an inflation of the money supply if all the government expenditures which Humphrey calls for in his latest book are to be made. True enough, tax cutting which helps to boom the economy also serves to increase the amount of taxable income in the nation. But the Humphrey type of extreme welfarism will hardly be paid for out of a lower individual tax rate on any amount of taxable income that is now in sight.

Toward the end of the 16th century, the rulers of Japan, being anxious for trade with the West, granted concessions to the Spaniards and Portuguese. At first, they permitted the Europeans to build churches and convert the Japanese.

The friars were notably successful. In a very few years, they converted thousands of Japanese. Some estimates put the figure at 300,000.

At this point, the shoguns — rulers — began to be uneasy — not on religious but political grounds. They apparently came to suspect that the Japanese Christians were a potential "fifth column" in the event of trouble with Spain.

Thereupon, edicts were issued, ordering the friars, to leave Japan on pain of death, and designed to extirpate the foreign faith, root and branch, from Japanese soil.

The edicts met almost total defiance. The friars continued to preach openly, and the people continued to worship in the churches.

Then the terror began. At first, it took the form of executions.

A more terrible sequence followed — torture. The effort now was to force the Christians to recant. Very few did so. Even Japanese children, when offered pardon, replied that they preferred to die with their parents.

An eyewitness, a Frenchman who was not involved, said "the poor Christians endured the tortures with a constancy to a miracle."

A Japanese account says 200,000 persons were "punished." Christianity, to all appearances, vanished from Japan. But there is a sequel, a testimonial to the human spirit.

In the 19th century, when Westerners returned to Japan, they found that Christianity had not died out there. A few Japanese had been practicing it in secret for more than two centuries.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CONGRESSMAN John Lindsay of New York tells about a shop owner with 148 employees who proposed a profit sharing and pension plan—provided every employee signed writing. 147 men signed at once, but one maverick refused, thereby nullifying the entire project. For two weeks the hold-out persisted, then one day marched into the boss' office and declared meekly, "I've decided to sign." "Good," enthused the boss, "but what finally persuaded you to change your mind?" Explained the hold-out: "This morning the two huskiest members of the union grabbed me by the collar and told me, 'If you haven't signed up by 10:30 this morning we'll break both your arms, break both your legs, and knock out all your teeth.' Well, Boss, nobody had ever bothered to explain the plan to me so clearly before."

"Remember," the late Mayor Curley of Boston always advised his young political proteges, "that every time you do a favor for a constituent, you make nine enemies and one ingrate."

Sam Levenson received this note from his boy at camp: "Dear Dad: We've been taking some pretty long hikes this week. Please send my other sneaker."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Q: What does "dizziness" really mean?
A: Dizziness, technically known as vertigo, creates a false sensation of circular motion, when actually everything is standing still. The patient may feel that he is turning or that objects are turning around him. This causes a feeling of unsteadiness and loss of balance.
Dizziness is a term which is often incorrectly used to describe headache, blurring of the eyes, lightheadedness, faintness or similar disturbances.
Q: What are the causes of dizziness?
A: The center of balance, or equilibrium, lies in three tiny canals, deep within the inner ear.
This sensitive balance center can be disturbed by any of the following conditions:
1) ear infections
2) eye conditions
3) neurological (nerve) disorders and Meniere's disease
4) arteriosclerosis
5) high and low blood pressure
6) sensitivity to drugs, alcohol, caffeine, and allergies
7) motion sickness
8) excessive fluid intake
These are only a few of the conditions that can cause real vertigo or dizziness.
Q: Is dizziness dangerous?
A: Dizziness is an excellent warning signal of the body to let know that something is wrong. Since dizziness is only a symptom, it cannot be said that it is dangerous in itself.
It is the cause of the dizziness that must be investigated. In most cases, dizziness is caused by minor conditions that can be easily corrected or cured.
Q: Is Meniere's disease another name for dizziness?
A: Absolutely not. To think that every case of dizziness must mean Meniere's disease is as fallacious as to think that every cough must mean tuberculosis.
Meniere's disease is a very specific illness and dizziness is only one of its symptoms. The combination of sudden prologed dizzy spells, noise in the ear (tinnitus) and progressive hearing loss may suggest Meniere's disease. But even the presence of all these symptoms need not necessarily mean Meniere's disease.
Q: Is there a cure for dizziness?
A: The treatment, control and cure of dizziness depend entirely on its cause.
Treatment for eye conditions is, for example, obviously different from treatment for high and low blood pressure.
Q: Are there special tests to find the cause?
A: Neurological tests, eye examinations, X-rays of the skull, hearing studies, balance tests (caloric and turning tests) can all contribute vital information to help the physician find the cause and select the proper treatment.

The 'Veep' Image

By John Chamberlain

If, as seems most certain, President Johnson intends to continue his cultivation of the bigger businessmen throughout his campaign, the problem of scrubbing up the image of whoever will be his Vice Presidential nominee will surely vex him to the end.

The reason for this is that the Democratic Party in the North and West, the regions which must provide the Vice Presidential choice, has been a labor party ever since its failure to win with Wall Streeter John W. Davis in 1924. The prominent Democrats north of Maryland and Kentucky, minus a Senator Frank Lausche or two, all have records of at least part-time obeisance to a Leftist Americanism for Democratic Action line. They have been Welfare Staters of the more spendthrift type.

It wasn't so many years ago that Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota was saying that "I learned more about economics from one South Dakota dust storm than I did in all my years in college." No doubt the experience of a dust storm can be salutary. But if government insurance against floods, earthquakes, fires, hurricanes, and dry cycles were all there is to economics, it would make sense for businessmen to set up shop in natural calamity area on the general theory that all bad years would be subsidized. The conclusion that Hubert Humphrey drew from his Dakota dust storm when he was mixing milk shakes for his father in a prairie small-town drugstore was diametrically opposed to the common sense of economics, which tells most men to go into business where conditions are, on balance, favorable.

Humphrey's economics have been of the "spend, spend" type, with the money going to sustain people in ventures that have only the remotest chance of paying off. "Dust bowl economics" has envisioned the whole nation—and, indeed, much of the outside world—as a charity ward, with Washington acting as a compulsory United Fund for sucking in the dollars and dispensing them to keep profitless businesses going.

Eugene McCarthy, the other Minnesota Senator, has never put his economic theories into crude dust bowl terms. But his book, "Frontiers in American Democracy," written some years ago, goes pretty far towards advocating "good" is terms of federal aid to just about everything.

Both Humphrey and McCarthy, to do them justice, have lately shown a disposition to retreat from extreme Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) positions. In his newest book, "The Cause Is Mankind," which was timed to hit the retail counters on the eve of the Democratic convention, Humphrey blossoms forth as a believer in tax cuts. He also insists that he is no enemy of free enterprise. As for McCarthy, he has joined with another Democratic Senator, Hartke of Indiana, in calling for a reconsideration of the whole philosophy that has put the central government in Washington in the position of depending for revenues on onerous Federal excise taxes. It is McCarthy's idea that if Washington would relinquish the field of excise taxation to the states, local governments would find a source of revenues that would enable them to take care of many needs that now require federal assistance.

So, in effect, we have the outlines of a "new" Humphrey and a "new" McCarthy. This refurbishing of images is nicely calculated to appeal to businessmen who might be tempted to join the Independent Republicans and Citizens for Johnson organization set up by Walter S. Mack, former president of the Pepsi-Cola Company.

The logical fallacy involved in this refurbishing of images is that tax cuts must be compensated for by an inflation of the money supply if all the government expenditures which Humphrey calls for in his latest book are to be made. True enough, tax cutting which helps to boom the economy also serves to increase the amount of taxable income in the nation. But the Humphrey type of extreme welfareism will hardly be paid for out of a lower individual tax rate on any amount of taxable income that is now in sight.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — What Americans are doing with their money this summer and what they plan to do shines forth today in a spate of government and private statistics.

—Bank customers are pushing their money into and out of their checking accounts at a faster rate than earlier this year, and much faster than a year ago.

—Stock traders are betting less now on a drop in prices than they were just a month back.

—Fewer people are starting

new homes than earlier this year, or this time last year.

—Stockholders are getting slightly bigger cash dividend payments this summer than last.

—Businessmen are ordering more durable goods from manufacturers again after a two-month slowdown and the backlog of unfilled orders has risen — to promise brisk activity in the weeks and months ahead.

It adds up to a mixed picture, but with the bullish-minded still in the foreground.

The ways of people with their checking accounts are revealed by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in a report today on demand deposit turnover. This shows that in 337 localities outside the major money centers the velocity rate increased 2 1/2 per cent in July over June, and 3 per cent over July 1963.

In New York City the turnover rate went up 10 per cent in the month to a new high, money going in and out of checking accounts 22 per cent faster than a year ago.

In the six other leading financial centers — Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco and Los Angeles — bank customers turned over their accounts at a 4 1/2 per cent faster rate in July than in June, and 5 per cent higher than last year.

The turnover rate sheds light on the general economic activity and on the effective supply of money available to the economy.

The New York Stock Exchange reports that in the month ended Aug. 14 the short interest dropped by 239,735 shares to a total of 6,400,795. This is a measure of bearish sentiment, since it shows that in the issues involved some traders expect to buy back their borrowed stock at a lower price. The drop in the total reflects a slight dimming of bearish sentiment. Since only 0.1 per cent of all shares listed are involved, the bearish element seems pretty slim just now.

Housing starts are another matter. They dropped 5 per cent in July from June and were 4 per cent below a year ago. For the May-July period starts were 2 per cent below the 1963 period.

Stockholders got cash dividend payments in July totalling $1,158,000,000, compared to $1,082,000,000 in the 1963 month.

All in all, the money continues to flow at a faster than usual rate this summer, and this gives businessmen — except maybe home builders — high hopes for the autumn.

RUMPUS ROOM TABLE — Use an empty wooden barrel to make a base for a table to use in rumpus room or den. Paint it or decorate with stencil designs and add a circle of wood for the top.

Use Ingenuity And Create Unusual Tables

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

There's nothing nicer than the satisfaction of pointing with pride to a home furnishing that's been admired and admitting without modesty, "I made it myself."

Much such do - it - yourself projects are tough to tackle, but table-making isn't in this category. A table is easily put together.

In fact, you don't always have to assemble one. Sometimes you can take full credit for a re-designing job.

A friend of mine, for example, found a marvelous round dining table with a five-foot diameter in a secondhand shop. What did she do with it?

She refinished its somewhat marred top, then removed the base and added a new one that reduced the table to cocktail height.

Her queen-size low table is the envy and admiration of all her friends. It serves snacks beautifully and makes a nifty catch-all for unread magazines and books.

If you want to create from scratch, as it were, you might begin with a door. It makes a marvelous table top.

If it's a paneled door, the panels can be decoratively filled into create a design.

Stained glass, for example, might be used, its jewel tones providing a colorful accent for the room's scheme.

Panes of colored glass can sometimes be picked up in an antique shop. And old house that's being demolished offers another possible source. Keep your eyes on the lookout.

Mosaic tiles, available in hobby stores, can fill in door panels both decoratively and colorfully.

One gal we know pasted matchbook covers she'd collected in the panels, then covered them with a protective pane of glass.

Legs for your "door" table can be purchased from a hardware store.

An empty wooden barrel or keg makes a wonderful base for a gay table to use in a rumpus room or den. Add a circle of wood for the top and your table is made.

You'll want to paint it, of course, and perhaps decorate it with stencil designs — the brighter, the better.

Such projects are fun but, for beauty's sake, make sure you protect your hands when you're refinishing, painting or sanding by wearing liquid - proof household gloves from start to finish.

One type of glove, made with neoprene, a synthetic rubber that resists chemicals, oils, acids and solvents, has a non-slip finish on the finger and palm area. It's an especially good glove to wear when refinishing furniture.

Another type of glove, made of sheer material, allows maximum hand dexterity so that fingers are nimble for painting jobs.

Both glove styles have long cuffs for extra forearm protection.

Always grease the top of yeast dough that is being allowed to rise for the first time so as to keep this surface from drying. A dry surface might interfere with the dough's ability to stretch and rise.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

It's Understandable!

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday I attended my cousin's wedding. It was a beautiful wedding, held in our church. During the ceremony the minister told the bride and groom he hoped that they would keep up their spiritual connections with the church. Then he started bawling out all the guests because they came to church only when they wanted some service performed, such as a marriage or a christening, but that they never bothered about Sunday morning services. It made the guests very uncomfortable. Do you think this was the proper time for the minister to have brought up that subject? What was the matter with him anyway?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He was probably captivated by his captive audience. Forgive him, for it shall be said that even a minister becomes sorely wearied of a depleted flock.

Guide Lines On Linens for Bridal Present

By ELEANOR ROSS

The fine art of choosing bridal linens has changed as to quantity, since it is no longer the custom to assemble a collection large enough to last a lifetime.

The content has also changed with the advent of well-styled plastics, synthetic fabrics and no-iron finishes.

However, while the details may differ, the basics of care remain the same.

Good care begins with preliminary laundering — before new bed linens, tablecloths, place mats and towels are used. This removes factory finish, dirt and fingermarks due to handling, printed lettering, labels and embroidery machine oil.

It also restores fluffiness to Turkish towels, which tend to mat when stored on store shelves.

At one time, fine stores had trousseau linens professionally laundered, then folded to fit properly into gift boxes with monograms and designs centered. Even today, sheets, towels, etc., should be carefully prepared for display in the bridal linen closet.

With growing acceptance of the easy-and-inexpensive-keep concept, today's bride chooses table coverings and napkins, printed sheets and cases, and towels for safe machine-washing and -drying.

Surface - spongeable plastics are favored these days, in preference to the lavish, difficult-to-launder traditions of the past.

In laundering linens, it is best to follow directions in the washer and dryer use-care booklets and any special directions on the merchandise itself. Even face cloths, organdies and open work are machine-safe if encased in a mesh laundry bag.

Veteran homemakers have many tried and proven tips and shortcuts for good linen care. One suggestion is to iron linen damask damp with a hot iron — first on the wrong side, then on the right side for a glossy finish. Roll cloths on a cylinder to eliminate all creases when spread on a table; or fold them lightly in thirds so there will be only two creases, both "standing" the same way.

To avoid wear on one set of threads, change the position of creases each time tablecloths, sheets and napkins are ironed. Iron monograms and other embroidery right side down, and over a well-padded board or folded towel to bring out the design in 3-D effect.

Cover lace and other openwork with a clean press cloth or tissue to prevent the iron from catching and snagging.

An easy way to wash small, fragile pieces like lace doilies and the bridal lace handkerchief is by shaking them in a miniature mechanical washer — a capped jar full of suds, followed by rinse water. This swishes the sudsy water through the delicate fabric without friction or rubbing.

Plastic tablecloths and place-mats can be sponged with warm suds, followed by rinse-wiping. A well-lathered vegetable brush will coax crumbs from a textured surface.

All of these pieces can be swished through deep suds and rinses occasionally, then wiped dry or hung to drip.

Yale Changes Privileges to Responsibility

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) —

Privilege has been changed to responsibility at Yale's Commencement.

President Kingman Brewster Jr. made a slight but significant change in the traditional degree-awarding ceremony indicating how Yale's new president feels about the importance of education.

In the past, when the president of Yale conferred regular and honorary degrees at Commencement, he ended up his statement by saying that the degree holder is entitled to all "the rights and privileges" of a Yale degree.

Not any more. The recipient is now entitled to all "the rights and responsibilities."

President Brewster, elected as 17th president of Yale last October, presided at his first Yale Commencement as president on Monday, June 15.

Then he started bawling out all the guests because they came to church only when they wanted some service performed, such as a marriage or a christening, but that they never bothered about Sunday morning services. It made the guests very uncomfortable. Do you think this was the proper time for the minister to have brought up that subject? What was the matter with him anyway?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He was probably captivated by his captive audience. Forgive him, for it shall be said that even a minister becomes sorely wearied of a depleted flock.

Guide Lines On Linens for Bridal Present

By ELEANOR ROSS

The fine art of choosing bridal linens has changed as to quantity, since it is no longer the custom to assemble a collection large enough to last a lifetime.

The content has also changed with the advent of well-styled plastics, synthetic fabrics and no-iron finishes.

However, while the details may differ, the basics of care remain the same.

Good care begins with preliminary laundering — before new bed linens, tablecloths, place mats and towels are used. This removes factory finish, dirt and fingerprints due to handling, printed lettering, labels and embroidery machine oil.

It also restores fluffiness to Turkish towels, which tend to mat when stored on store shelves.

At one time, fine stores had trousseau linens professionally laundered, then folded to fit properly into gift boxes with monograms and designs centered. Even today, sheets, towels, etc., should be carefully prepared for display in the bridal linen closet.

With growing acceptance of the easy-and-inexpensive-keep concept, today's bride chooses table coverings and napkins, printed sheets and cases, and towels for safe machine-washing and drying.

Surface - spongeable plastics are favored these days, in preference to the lavish, difficult-to-launder traditions of the past.

In laundering linens, it is best to follow directions in the washer and dryer use-care booklets and any special directions on the merchandise itself. Even face cloths, organdies and open work are machine-safe if encased in a mesh laundry bag.

Veteran homemakers have many tried and proven tips and shortcuts for good linen care. One suggestion is to iron linen damask damp with a hot iron — first on the wrong side, then on the right side for a glossy finish. Roll cloths on a cylinder to eliminate all creases when spread on a table; or fold them lightly in thirds so there will be only two creases, both "standing" the same way.

To avoid wear on one set of threads, change the position of creases each time tablecloths, sheets and napkins are ironed. Iron monograms and other embroidery right side down, and over a well-padded board or folded towel to bring out the design in 3-D effect.

Cover lace and other openwork with a clean press cloth or tissue to prevent the iron from catching and snagging.

An easy way to wash small, fragile pieces like lace doilies and the bridal lace handkerchief is by shaking them in a miniature mechanical washer — a capped jar full of suds, followed by rinse water. This swishes the sudsy water through the delicate fabric without friction or rubbing.

Plastic tablecloths and place mats can be sponged with warm suds, followed by rinse-wiping. A well-lathered vegetable brush will coax crumbs from a textured surface.

All of these pieces can be swished through deep suds and rinses occasionally, then wiped dry or hung to drip.

Yale Changes Privileges to Responsibility

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Privilege has been changed to responsibility at Yale's Commencement.

President Kingman Brewster Jr. made a slight but significant change in the traditional degree-awarding ceremony indicating how Yale's new president feels about the importance of education.

In the past, when the president of Yale conferred regular and honorary degrees at Commencement, he ended up his statement by saying that the degree holder is entitled to all "the rights and privileges" of a Yale degree.

Not any more. The recipient is now entitled to all "the rights and responsibilities."

President Brewster, elected as 17th president of Yale last October, presided at his first Yale Commencement as president on Monday, June 15.

Soviet Space Shot Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) —Three American space authorities figure the Soviet Union may be ready to launch another "space spectacular."

Dr. C. Stark Draper, president of the International Academy of Astronautics, told a news conference there are strong indications the Russians will attempt a major launching before or during the astronautics congress Sept. 7-12 in Warsaw, Poland.

Dr. E. B. Konecni, director of biotechnology and human research for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, says she expects a launching "within the next small number of days."

Andrew G. Haley, academy general counsel, said he had been alerted by a British source the Russians would "come out with something spectacular" just before the Warsaw meeting.

Collegians Paid $3 a Week To Help Build New Church

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The pay is only $3 a week with room and board, but 10 Texas college students have given up their summer vacations to build a church in this south Texas town.

In addition to building the church, the students conduct revival services in the Raymondville area and lead regular services here of the First Baptist church and Primera Iglesia Bautista — Spanish for First Baptist Church. It is a new structure for the Spanish church that they are building.

The students are members of the Baptist Student Union which has 55,000 members on campuses of 68 Texas colleges.

"I wouldn't work this hard for money," says Jeff Crossland, 21, a senior history major at North Texas State University. "Actually, there is pay in this job," Crossland says, "but the pay isn't money; it's a richly rewarding experience."

The students — six young men and four girls — are from 19 to 25 years old. They share what once was the First Baptist parsonage. The boys sleep on bunk beds in one room and the girls share double beds in the rear of the house.

The boys handle most of the work on the church — often working 15 hours a day — while the girls feed the crew and keep work clothes clean.

Betty Ann Gunstream, a junior at Baylor University, wasn't content with housework though.

"The first week, I went out and dug ditches with the boys, and I've painted some," she said.

"I didn't dig any ditches, but my shovel was a broom and my wheelbarrow was a dustpan," reported Patsy Blum, a senior majoring in history at Tarleton State College.

The digging of 750 feet of ditches for the foundation was the hardest part of the job. A professional was called to lay the first 4,000 concrete blocks, and the students stepped in to lay the final blocks and do the rest of the work.

The Rev. Bill McDaniel, pastor of the church, is the building foreman. He once was a carpenter.

"I came here 4½ years ago with the idea in mind of building this church, and it has been a dream of mine," he said. "It wouldn't have been possible without the help of the students."

The 400 x 180 foot lot for the new church cost $6,000. Total cost is about $22,000. The building and land are worth about $40,000.

First Baptist has contributed $11,000 for the building fund, and the Baptist General Convention of Texas donated $6,000.

Of Raymondville's 10,000 population, about 8,000 are of Mexican ancestry. Of the 10,000, First Baptist estimates 6,500 persons do not attend any church.

Primera Bautista — in operation about 30 years — now has 80 members. Services are held in a dilapidated residence.

Compassion For Jackie Stirs Ruby

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Ruby reportedly told the Warren Commission he never knew Lee Harvey Oswald, President Kennedy's accused assassin, and that his compassion for the president's widow led him to kill Oswald.

That information came from the New York Journal-American, which is publishing under copyright a 102-page transcript of a three-hour interrogation of Ruby by Chief Justice Earl Warren in Dallas last June 7.

The account is written under the byline of columnist Dorothy Kilgallen, who said she obtained the transcript "through sources close to the commission in Washington."

In Wednesday's second installment, Ruby is quoted as saying of his shooting Oswald:

"Of why that Sunday morning — that thought never entered my mind prior to that Sunday morning when I took it upon myself to try to be a martyr or some screwball, you might say."

"But I felt very emotional and very carried away from (sic) Mrs. Kennedy, that with all the strife she had gone through—I had been following it pretty well—that someone owed it to our beloved president that she shouldn't be expected to come back to face trial of this heinous crime. And I have never had a chance to tell that, to back it up, to prove it. Consequently I am being victimized as part of a plot in the world's worst tragedy and crime at this moment."

Sometimes the future looks black; we can't see a glimmer of light anywhere . . . and we ask for help without really expecting an answer. But we're wrong. Even that small word, "help" means that we have realized our own inadequacy and turned to Something outside ourselves for guidance.

Called, or not called, "God is an ever-present help in trouble." And whenever we ask Him to intervene, our lives are filled with new hope and inspiration.

He does not ask us to worry about the future. In fact, He doesn't intend us to worry at all. Worry indicates uncertainty and fear, and these have no place in Christian living.

Perhaps you are thinking "That takes greater faith than I'll ever have!" But you forget God's help. Perfect trust . . . serene peace of mind . . . these are your birthright. And your Church will teach you to attain them.

Collegians Paid $3 a Week To Help Build New Church

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The pay is only $3 a week with room and board, but 10 Texas college students have given up their summer vacations to build a church in this south Texas town.

In addition to building the church, the students conduct revival services in the Raymondville area and lead regular services here of the First Baptist church and Primera Iglesia Bautista — Spanish for First Baptist Church. It is a new structure for the Spanish church that they are building.

The students are members of the Baptist Student Union which has 55,000 members on campuses of 68 Texas colleges.

"I wouldn't work this hard for money," says Jeff Crossland, 21, a senior history major at North Texas State University. "Actually, there is pay in this job." Crossland says, "but the pay isn't money; it's a richly rewarding experience."

The students — six young men and four girls — are from 19 to 25 years old. They share what once was the First Baptist parsonage. The boys sleep on bunk beds in one room and the girls share double beds in the rear of the house.

The boys handle most of the work on the church — often working 15 hours a day — while the girls feed the crew and keep work clothes clean.

Betty Ann Gunstream, a junior at Baylor University, wasn't content with housework though.

"The first week, I went out and dug ditches with the boys, and I've painted some," she said.

"I didn't dig any ditches, but my shovel was a broom and my wheelbarrow was a dustpan," reported Patsy Blum, a senior majoring in history at Tarleton State College.

The digging of 750 feet of ditches for the foundation was the hardest part of the job.

A professional was called to lay the first 4,000 concrete blocks, and the students stepped in to lay the final blocks and do the rest of the work.

The Rev. Bill McDaniel, pastor of the church, is the building foreman. He once was a carpenter.

"I came here 4½ years ago with the idea in mind of building this church, and it has been a dream of mine," he said. "It wouldn't have been possible without the help of the students."

The 400 x 150 foot lot for the new church cost $6,000. Total cost is about $22,000. The building and land are worth about $40,000.

First Baptist has contributed $11,000 for the building fund, and the Baptist General Convention of Texas donated $6,000.

Of Raymondville's 10,000 population, about 8,000 are of Mexican ancestry. Of the 10,000, First Baptist estimates 6,500 persons do not attend any church.

Primera Bautista — in operation about 30 years — now has 80 members. Services are held in a dilapidated residence.

Compassion For Jackie Stirs Ruby

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Ruby reportedly told the Warren Commission he never knew Lee Harvey Oswald, President Kennedy's accused assassin, and that his compassion for the president's widow led him to kill Oswald.

That information came from the New York Journal-American, which is publishing under copyright a 102-page transcript of a three-hour interrogation of Ruby by Chief Justice Earl Warren in Dallas last June 7.

The account is written under the byline of columnist Dorothy Kilgallen, who said she obtained the transcript "through sources close to the commission in Washington."

In Wednesday's second installment, Ruby is quoted as saying of his shooting Oswald:

"Of why that Sunday morning — that thought never entered my mind prior to that Sunday morning when I took it upon myself to try to be a martyr or some screwball, you might say."

"But I felt very emotional and very carried away from (sic) Mrs. Kennedy, that with all the strife she had gone through — I had been following it pretty well — that someone owed it to our beloved president that she shouldn't be expected to come back to face trial of this heinous crime. And I have never had a chance to tell that, to back it up, to prove it. Consequently I am being victimized as part of a plot in the world's worst tragedy and crime at this moment."

Sometimes the future looks black; we can't see a glimmer of light anywhere . . . and we ask for help without really expecting an answer. But we're wrong. Even that small word, "help" means that we have realized our own inadequacy and turned to Something outside ourselves for guidance.

Called, or not called, "God is an ever-present help in trouble." And whenever we ask Him to intervene, our lives are filled with new hope and inspiration.

He does not ask us to worry about the future. In fact, He doesn't intend us to worry at all. Worry indicates uncertainty and fear, and these have no place in Christian living.

Perhaps you are thinking "That takes greater faith than I'll ever have!" But you forget God's help. Perfect trust . . . serene peace of mind . . . these are your birthright. And your Church will teach you to attain them.

A New Call for Faithfulness

ISRAEL'S OBLIGATION TO LOVE AND OBEY GOD
BECAUSE OF HIS REDEMPTION AND GRACIOUS CARE OF THEM

Scripture—Deuteronomy 1: 6-11.

By R. H. Ramsey

OUR lesson today opens with the first chapter of Deuteronomy in which Moses begins his summation of the trials and tribulations which have afflicted Israel since she began the exodus from Egypt. After 40 years of wandering, the Israelites are once again about to enter the promised land of Canaan. In reviewing the past 40 years, Moses reminds the people of God's promises that everything will be theirs if they only believe and obey Him. All their afflictions thus far have come as a result of their incredulity and disobedience and, in effect, Moses tells them that without obedience they may never gain the Promised Land.

The first three verses of Deuteronomy 6 capsule today's lesson neatly: If the people will only listen to and obey God's voice, they will live long and increase mightily in the land of milk and honey which God has promised them.

Then he goes on to explain the relationship which should prevail between God and man, transgressions. But woe unto those who disobey in the future! Now Moses gives the people instructions as to their behavior after they enter the Promised Land. They will conquer because God has promised it. But after she must dwell with a pagan people. And, to obey God, she must keep separate from them. In the second half of chapter 7 there is a long, detailed promise of victory, followed by the basic exhortation that if they forget the Lord their God and walk after the gods of the pagans they would perish.

Thus far, God has dealt graciously with Israel, Moses says in chapter 8. Never forget Him. For there is no sin more common than that of forgetting God. It is the sin of youth, middle and old age; of the foolish and frivolous, of the sensual and worldly; of professional and tradesmen, of women, teachers and students; of politicians and philanthropists; of preachers and theologians who are tempted to make ideas of God do duty for God.

Moses introduces a summarizing review of two tragic crises

GOLDEN TEXT

"Take heed to yourselves that your heart be not deceived, and ye turn aside, and serve other gods, and worship them." —Deuteronomy 11:16.

a statement repeated by Christ in Mark 12:30. In the first place, there is one above us, omnipotent, eternal, unchangeable; One apart from ourselves. He is God.

He is our God. He is ours because He has created us in His own image. He loves us and desires to redeem us; and because we will ultimately, if we are believers, be in His presence, He desires us to approach Him as a Father.

He is One. Contrary to the innumerable deities of paganism, He is one; whether He be revealed in the Persons of Father, Son or Holy Spirit, He is still one God.

Israel is never to forget this. It must be engraved on their hearts and diligently passed on from generation to generation. If necessary, they must wear the Law before their eyes and place it on the doorposts so they will ever be reminded to keep the Divine Law.

It is now or never for the Israelites to keep their part of the Covenant. God has kept His thus far, and even now is ready to forgive the Israelites their sins.

in the last 40 years of Israel's history in Deuteronomy 9. He reminds them of their own stubbornness and deprives them of any justification for boasting of their own goodness or righteousness. Untrusting he calls for single-hearted, personal devotion to Jehovah, whose care of His people has been so manifest in the benefits showered upon them.

There are three great and good reasons why Israel should zealously obey the Law of the Lord, Moses says (Deuteronomy 10:12-11:32).

First, she has full knowledge of God's infinite greatness and goodness. Secondly, God has gloriously redeemed this people from the enslaving and corrupting power of Egypt. And thirdly, if the Israelites are true to this kind of an ideal they will find life richly satisfying.

The chapter concludes with a definite promise that no matter how powerful the inhabitants of Canaan might be at the time of Israel's entrance into the Promised Land, God will give them a sweeping victory if they are but obedient to Him.

Couple Slated To Present Vocal Concert

REV. and MRS. SHEPPARD

The Rev. and Mrs. Charles Sheppard, Wilmore, Ky., will present a program of sacred music 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Tarleton Methodist Church.

According to the pastor, the Rev. Foster Jenne, "The Singing Sheppards" are both graduates of Ashbury College, Wilmore, Ky. Mr. Sheppard has studied at the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago, and taught on the music faculty of Chicago Evangelistic Institute. Mrs. Sheppard has studied at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and for a number of years headed the music department of Malone College, Canton, O. They have served as ministers of music in Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren Churches in Kentucky, Illinois and Florida.

The couple has traveled extensively singing in many countries in Europe, and spent a year traveling through Africa and the Middle East. More recently they finished a singing tour of the Far West and Canadian Northwest.

Their varied program will include sacred classics, hymns of the church and oratorio and gospel songs.

The public is invited to attend. A free will offering will be collected.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 21, the 234th day of 1964. There are 132 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1858, the Lincoln-Douglas debates started in Ottawa, Ill., in their race for the Senate. Although Judge Stephen Douglas won the election, Abraham Lincoln became a national figure, laying the groundwork for his election to the presidency two years later.

On this date:

In 1859, Edward L. Drake struck oil in drilling a well at Titusville, Pa., the first practical well in the modern sense and the start of the gasoline era.

In 1928, in World War I, the second Battle of the Somme began.

In 1941, the Red Army blew up Russia's great Dnieper Dam.

In 1943, the Navy disclosed that the Japanese had evacuated their last North American foothold, the island of Kiska in the Aleutian chain.

Ten years ago—A British Labor party delegation arrived in Peiping to promote the establishment of full diplomatic relations between Britain and Red China.

Five years ago—The Chinese Communists reported that at least 720 persons were killed when typhoon Iris hit Fukien Province the day before.

One year ago — South Viet Nam ordered nationwide martial law after troops and police attacked pagodas and arrested hundreds of Buddhists.

Children on Welfare
Hungry, Rhodes Told

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has been asked to do something about 168,000 children on state welfare rolls who a private group says are not getting enough to eat.

The request came Thursday from the Ohio Citizens' Council for Health and Welfare. The council says that a number of children are on an inadequate diet and some of them also lack winter clothing for school.

Robert Mason, 31, of Emporium, Pa., a convicted Columbus robber, and James Holmes, 33, of Zanesville, also were sentenced to 10 days in correctional cells and transferred to the penitentiary's incorrigible section.

Mason and Holmes fled from Roseville after they pulled a knife on a guard outside the prison walls.

6 in Line For State Developer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Six men were reported in line today for state Development Director George Wilson's job, a post Wilson is reported ready to give up. However, Wilson remains non-committal about reports of his pending resignation.

The cabinet job pays $18,000 a year.

The six:

Richard L. DeChant, Cleveland industrial developer; Donald H. Rolf, Cincinnati attorney; Gail W. Porterfield of Knox County, now an assistant to Tax Commissioner Louis J. Schneider; Fred E. Morr, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources; Willard P. Dudley, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation; and Fred P. Neuenschwander, Wilson's assistant director.

Reports have persisted in recent weeks that Wilson plans to quit.

Once he denied plans to resign, and in later questioning by newsmen he remained non-committal. He was not in his office today.

Extra Term Faces Pair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio Penitentiary summary court has recommended two-year extension of sentences of two convicts who fled the Roseville Honor Farm near Zanesville Sunday.

The pair held a family hostage before surrendering to police Tuesday.

Robert Mason, 31, of Emporium, Pa., a convicted Columbus robber, and James Holmes, 33, of Zanesville, also were sentenced to 10 days in correctional cells and transferred to the penitentiary's incorrigible section.

Mason and Holmes fled from Roseville after they pulled a knife on a guard outside the prison walls.

A New Call for Faithfulness

ISRAEL'S OBLIGATION TO LOVE AND OBEY GOD BECAUSE OF HIS REDEMPTION AND GRACIOUS CARE OF THEM

Scripture—Deuteronomy 1; 6-11.

By R. H. Ramsey
OUR lesson today opens with the first chapter of Deuteronomy in which Moses begins his summation of the trials and tribulations which have afflicted Israel since she began the exodus from Egypt.

After 40 years of wandering, the Israelites are once again about to enter the promised land of Canaan. In reviewing the past 40 years, Moses reminds the people of God's promises that everything will be theirs if they only believe and obey Him. All their afflictions thus far have come as a result of their incredulity and disobedience and, in effect, Moses tells them that without obedience they may never gain the Promised Land.

The first three verses of Deuteronomy 6 capsule today's lesson neatly: If the people will only listen to and obey God's voice, they will live long and increase mightily in the land of milk and honey which God has promised them.

Then he goes on to explain the relationship which should prevail between God and man.

transgressions. But woe unto those who disobey in the future! Now Moses gives the people instructions as to their behavior after they enter the Promised Land. They will conquer because God has promised it. But after she must dwell with a pagan people. And, to obey God, she must keep separate from them.

In the second half of chapter 7 there is a long, detailed promise of victory, followed by the basic exhortation that if they forget the Lord their God and walk after the gods of the pagans they would perish.

Thus far, God has dealt graciously with Israel, Moses says in chapter 8. Never forget Him. For there is no sin more common than that of forgetting God. It is the sin of youth, middle and old age; of the foolish and frivolous, the sensual and worldly; of professional and tradesmen, of women, teachers and students; of politicians and philanthropists; of preachers and theologians who are tempted to make ideas of God do duty for God.

Moses introduces a summarizing review of two tragic crises

GOLDEN TEXT

"Take heed to yourselves that your heart be not deceived, and ye turn aside, and serve other gods, and worship them."
—Deuteronomy 11:16.

a statement repeated by Christ in Mark 12:30. In the first place, there is One above us, omnipotent, eternal, unchangeable; One apart from ourselves. He is God.

He is our God. He is ours because He has created us in His own image. He loves us and desires to redeem us; and because we will ultimately, if we are believers, be in His presence. He desires us to approach Him as a Father.

He is One. Contrary to the innumerable deities of paganism, He is one; whether He be revealed in the Persons of Father, Son or Holy Spirit, He is still one God.

Israel is never to forget this. It must be engraved on their hearts and diligently passed on from generation to generation. If necessary, they must wear the Law before their eyes and place it on the doorposts so they will ever be reminded to keep the Divine Law.

It is now or never for the Israelites to keep their part of the Covenant. God has kept His thus far, and even now is ready to forgive the Israelites their in the last 40 years of Israel's history in Deuteronomy 9. He reminds them of their own stubbornness and deprives them of any justification for boasting of their own goodness or righteousness. Untrusting he calls for single-hearted, personal devotion to Jehovah, whose care of His people has been so manifest in the benefits showered upon them.

There are three great and good reasons why Israel should zealously obey the Law of the Lord, Moses says (Deuteronomy 10:12-13):

First, she has full knowledge of God's infinite greatness and goodness. Secondly, God has gloriously redeemed this people from the enslaving and corrupting power of Egypt. And thirdly, if the Israelites are true to this kind of an ideal they will find life richly satisfying.

The chapter concludes with a definite promise that no matter how powerful the inhabitants of Canaan might be at the time of Israel's entrance into the Promised Land, God will give them a sweeping victory if they are but obedient to Him.

Couple Slated To Present Vocal Concert

REV. and MRS. SHEPPARD

The Rev. and Mrs. Charles Sheppard, Wilmore, Ky., will present a program of sacred music 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Tarleton Methodist Church.

According to the pastor, the Rev. Foster Jenne, "The Singing Sheppards" are both graduates of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky. Mr. Sheppard has studied at the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago, and taught on the music faculty of Chicago Evangelistic Institute. Mrs. Sheppard has studied at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and for a number of years headed the music department of Malone College, Canton, O. They have served as ministers of music in Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren Churches in Kentucky, Illinois and Florida.

The couple has traveled extensively singing in many countries in Europe, and spent a year traveling through Africa and the Middle East. More recently they finished a singing tour of the Far West and Canadian Northwest.

Their varied program will include sacred classics, hymns of the church and oratorio and gospel songs.

The public is invited to attend. A free will offering will be collected.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 21, the 234th day of 1964. There are 132 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1858, the Lincoln-Douglas debates started in Ottawa, Ill., in their race for the Senate. Although Judge Stephen Douglas won the election, Abraham Lincoln became a national figure, laying the groundwork for his election to the presidency two years later.

On this date:
In 1859, Edward L. Drake struck oil in drilling a well at Titusville, Pa., the first practical well in the modern sense and the start of the gasoline era.

In 1928, in World War I, the second Battle of the Somme began.

In 1941, the Red Army blew up Russia's great Dnieper Dam. In 1943, the Navy disclosed that the Japanese had evacuated their last North American foothold, the island of Kiska in the Aleutian chain.

Ten years ago—A British Labor party delegation arrived in Peking to promote the establishment of full diplomatic relations between Britain and Red China.

Five years ago—The Chinese Communists reported that at least 720 persons were killed when typhoon Iris hit Fukien Province the day before.

One year ago — South Viet Nam ordered nationwide martial law after troops and police attacked pagodas and arrested hundreds of Buddhists.

Children on Welfare

Hungry, Rhodes Told

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has been asked to do something about 168,000 children on state welfare rolls who a private group says are not getting enough to eat.

The request came Thursday from the Ohio Citizens' Council for Health and Welfare. The council says that a number of children are on an inadequate diet and some of them also lack winter clothing for school.

6 in Line For State Developer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Six men were reported in line today for state Development Director George Wilson's job, a post Wilson is reported ready to give up. However, Wilson remains non-committal about reports of his pending resignation.

The cabinet job pays $18,000 a year.

The six:
Richard L. DeChant, Cleveland industrial developer; Donald H. Rolf, Cincinnati attorney; Gail W. Porterfield of Knox County, now an assistant to Tax Commissioner Louis J. Schneider; Fred E. Morr, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources; Willard P. Dudley, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation; and Fred P. Neuenschwander, Wilson's assistant director.

Reports have persisted in recent weeks that Wilson plans to quit.

Once he denied plans to resign, and in later questioning by newsmen he remained non-committal. He was not in his office today.

Extra Term Faces Pair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio Penitentiary summary court has recommended two-year extension of sentences of two convicts who fled the Roseville Honor Farm near Zanesville Sunday.

The pair held a family hostage before surrendering to police Tuesday.

Robert Mason, 31, of Emporium, Pa., a convicted Columbus robber, and James Holmes, 33, of Zanesville, also were sentenced to 10 days in correctional cells and transferred to the penitentiary's incorrigible section.

Mason and Holmes fled from Roseville after they pulled a knife on a guard outside the prison walls.

$1.4 Million In Building Projects OK'd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Construction funds totaling $1.4 million have been released for the Highway Patrol's new academy at the state fairgrounds.

The State Controlling board—watchdog over Ohio's finances—okayed use of the money Thursday as well as $49,800 for equipment. Planning funds were released previously.

In other action, the board authorized expenditures for installation of automatic fire alarm systems in six state hospitals.

Amounts involved are Portsmouth Receiving Hospital $6,000; Summit County Receiving Hospital $8,000; Tiffin State Hospital $38,000; Tiffin State Psychiatric Hospital in Cincinnati $10,000; Orient State Hospital $55,000, and Woodside Receiving Hospital in Youngstown $15,000. Other approvals by the board include:

Purchase of dredging equipment for Indian Lake ($290,000) and Buckeye Lake ($120,000). Use of $41,481 by the Youth Commission so 60 more children can be added to a foster care program now serving 125.

An additional floor for Ohio University's service building ($56,363), heating and ventilating for Memorial Auditorium $31,422, repairs to Copeland Hall roof ($3,000) and resurfacing dormitory parking areas ($19,944).

Installing new high pressure steam lines and a heating plant addition at Central State College ($10,332).

Ohio Elks Schedule Three-Day Conference

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Members of the Ohio Elks Association from throughout the state were expected today for the association's 35th annual fall conference.

Carlton L. Riddle of Willard, president of the 55,000-member association, said 95 lodges will be represented at the convocation, which will continue through Sunday.

Franklin Fitzpatrick of Chicago, grand secretary of the order, will head a long list of speakers, most of them scheduled to talk at Saturday sessions.

French Attracts

QUEBEC (AP)—The Quebec government says it gets five times as much tourist interest resulting from French-language advertising in U. S. magazines than from advertisements in English. Using French "evoked in the American reader the image of a different country, able to satisfy his desire to make a foreign voyage but not too far."

37th Division Lauded for High Rating

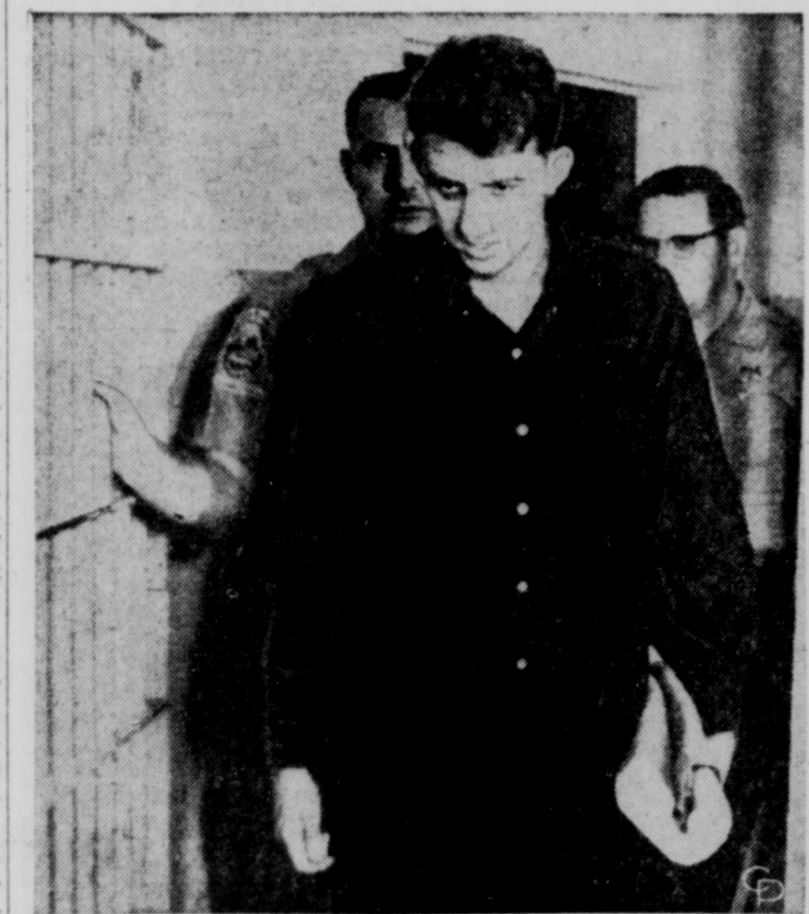

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes commended the Ohio National Guard's 37th Infantry Division Thursday on obtaining the highest ratings in the nation in its recently concluded annual field training.

Rhodes noted that the division's 88 units, made up of nearly 9,000 Ohioans, attained average grades of 94.08 on the basis of evaluations by regular Army officers who inspected nearly every phase of training at Camp Grayling, Mich. The battalion attained an even higher average of 95.73.

An average of 95 out of a possible 100 would rank the division as superior. There never has been an overall superior National Guard or reserve division. The 37th's ratings, however, are the highest recorded so far by any reserve component division.

State Liquor Store Thefts Cost $11,000

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor Roger Tracy reports that losses from embezzlements, burglaries and holdups in state liquor stores totaled nearly $11,000 during the first seven months of 1964. His report Thursday followed tabulation of liquor audits in the state.

Red China Wins Round Against Soviet Commies

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Red Chinese have won an important round against the balked and frustrated Soviet Communists in a battle over who calls the shots among Communists of Asia and Africa.

Moscow virtually has thrown in the towel after a long struggle to force its way into the Communist-backed Asian-African solidarity organization.

The outcome has important meaning for Asia. Peking has enjoyed considerable success in keeping the door to Asian communism closed to the Soviet Union. This means the Russians have little influence, for example, on what takes place in a powderkeg situation such as Viet Nam.

The Kremlin, with little choice, had to bow out as gracefully as possible. To insist upon being recognized as an Asian nation and then be voted down by a Red Chinese majority would have been painful.

The fight concerned who would participate in a conference planned by the organization for next March. The first such conference was held at Bandung, Indonesia, in 1955, and the Russians attended.

Moscow says the Chinese opposed the Russians on racial grounds and even pictured the U.S.S.R. as if it were in the same category as "colonial powers with possessions in Asia and Africa." That stung badly.

Trying to make the best of it, Moscow sent messages to Asian the African governments, saying "the Soviet Union cannot allow the question of its invitation to be embarrassing for Afro-Asian countries, and especially its use by anyone for sowing discord among them."

The message said Moscow didn't take the initiative in raising the question of its attendance in the first place. Perhaps it didn't, but the Kremlin obviously wanted an invitation, and complained the Red C game.

This battle has raged a long time. The Soviets date it to 1962 and what they call "the tragic conflict on the frontiers" between Red China and India, and Red China's "narrow nationalism."

Early in 1963 at Mosh, Tanganyika, the Chinese, apparently with unlimited money at their disposal, tried to seize control of an Asian-African meeting, and had a fierce clash with the Russians. It seemed pretty much a draw. Then, in September, the Russians tried to ram through an approval of their partial nuclear test ban treaty. They were defeated in a meeting of the solidarity organization at Nicosia, Cyprus.

In April, the group held another preparatory meeting in Indonesia. Soviet participation was proposed. Russian-hating Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi engineered a burial of that proposal and the Russians were furious. They took their case directly to Asian and African governments with special messages.

They have just done this again, in what appears an attempt to go over the heads of delegations whose Communist members seem to be in the hands of the Chinese.

"It is obvious that if some forces, proceeding from their factional goals, do not wish the Soviet Union to attend the conference," the Soviet message fumed, "this harms the national liberation movement."

The "national liberation movement" is Communist language for revolutionary movements in underdeveloped countries subject to seizure by the Communists.

Evidently Red China, North Korea, North Viet Nam, the Japanese Communists and others ganged up on the Russians. If Moscow were invited, they would refuse to attend the meeting, and there would be no solidarity meeting.

The Russians lost, and they know it.

Rhodes Calls Agriculture Top Industry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes, Ohio's most inveterate fair-goer, said today his tour of county and independent expositions seeks to point up the importance of agriculture.

"Agriculture is Ohio's largest industry and provides more jobs, directly and indirectly, than any other field of enterprise," the governor said.

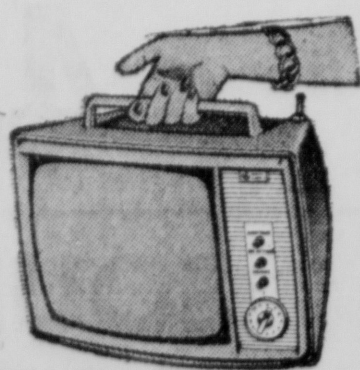

"These fairs underscore the drama of what agriculture means to the Ohio economy and they emphasize the superb advances constantly being made."

He said the gross annual income from sale of farm products exceeds $1 billion. Ohio's food processing industry now adds more than $1.3 billion of value to the economy annually, employs 143,095 people and provides an annual payroll of nearly $679 million, he continued. Rhodes predicted an enormous growth for the food processing industry in the next decade.

Illinois Midland Railroad Is Short One, but Unique

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Association Correspondent

NEWARK, Ill. — This farm community of 500 people boasts the world's shortest standard gauge railroad, in operation since 1917.

The Illinois Midland Railroad Co. has exactly 1.9 miles of track. It starts at Newark, rolls through a cow pasture, a wooded tract, crosses several secondary farm roads, and winds up at the town of Millington.

Although the trackage is less than two miles, and the road has only one locomotive — a second-hand, orange-colored Diesel — it has consistently shown a tenacity to endure.

Here's the secret of its operation: The Illinois Midland Railroad is owned by the Newark Farmers Grain Co. It hauls farmers' grain from Newark to Millington, and saves them money.

The railroad has a contract with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy to put its grain cars on CB&Q switches at Millington, where the cars join larger trains on this big road, headed for Chicago markets.

If the little orange locomotive of the Midland didn't run, it would be necessary to truck all area grain to the distant town of Morris, then move it via river barge to the Chicago market, a rather expensive process.

Originally, the IMRC was meant to be a much longer line. Newark oldsters still remember back in 1913 when a promoter came to town with a grandiose scheme to give the isolated inland town a railroad connection. He built the short road, and collected a lot of money from area farmers and businessmen on the promise to extend the road to the town of Seneca. But one night the man left town — dollars and all.

Since the tiny railroad had no one to manage it, the farmers who had their money in the trackage leased it to the local grain company. Later the grain company purchased it.

The little railroad began hauling corn, oats and soybeans to Millington, pulling back loaded cars full of coal, lumber and fertilizer. However, as the year passed, the engines wore out, new track was needed, and the operation was very much in the red.

About ready to call it quits, officials of the Illinois Agricultural Association heard the woes of the farm railroaders and decided to help. Result: the little road today receives a small portion of the freight charge for hauling grain from Newark to Chicago.

So the red ink was thrown away and now the business ledger is all in black.

It's a very informal railroad. When a car of grain is loaded at the Newark Grain Co., one of the elevator employees, Lawrence Akre, goes out to the locomotive shed, runs out the Diesel and hooks it to the loaded grain car. Then he starts for Millington, nearly two miles distant. He's his own brakeman, gate-opener and oiler, too.

Ohio Air Base Appropriation Given Nod

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress sent a compromise military construction bill to the White House Thursday containing appropriations for Ohio Air Force bases.

In the compromise bill, Newark Air Force Station in Licking County receives $3,205,000 and Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton receives $5,542,000.

The figure going to Lockbourne Air Force Base in Columbus was unchanged from previous committee approvals—$505,000.

Originally, the Senate Committee had approved $3,289,000 for the Newark base, and $5,948,000 for Wright-Patterson. The House Committee had originally approved only $2,405,000 for Newark, and had approved the same amount for Wright-Patterson as in the compromise bill.

The final appropriations were determined in the compromise bill after conferences between the Senate and House committees.

HOLLYWOOD (A) — Lucille Ball, who needs another job like a centipede needs another leg, is on the threshold of a new career — radio. Starting on Labor Day, Lucy will preside over a 10-minute week-day program called "Let's Talk with Lucy" on CBS.

Already the star of a popular CBS television series and president of the enormous, multimillion-dollar Desilu productions — which owns the biggest studio complex in Hollywood — Lucy is working on the new project with the enthusiasm of a cub reporter on a first big assignment.

She carries a tape recorder wherever she goes, just in case she runs into someone or something interesting. The other day she grabbed an interview with busy Bob Hope as she trotted beside him on a walk between his dressing room and a set.

She has already taped interviews, some two- and three-part sessions with famous friends and colleagues including Bing Crosby, Jack Benny, Danny Kaye, Dean Martin and his wife, and others.

The public, which has long known and loved Lucy Ricardo and Lucy Carmichael, will be meeting a third — the real one, Lucille Ball Morton.

"I've always liked radio," the red-haired comedienne said. "But I'd sort of forgotten what a really important thing it is to so many people. Last spring when I was in Virginia a lot of people asked me why I never was on radio. I said that I was on television—but they said it wasn't the same thing."

The subject of a daily radio show was broached after Garry Moore (who had a daily radio show on CBS for years) decided on a broadcasting sabbatical.

Gary Morton, Lucy's husband, will join her often on the program, and is, in addition, producing the series.

The three major television networks, which have invested millions of dollars and deployed tons of equipment and transported their top broadcasters, now are busily attempting to drum up suspense and excitement over the forthcoming Democratic National Convention starting Monday in Atlantic City.

Political leaders will be popping up for interviews all over the channels during the week-end and the New Jersey resort city's boardwalk will be getting first degree burns from camera exposure.

Conventions, like beauty contests, have aficionados among television viewers even when there is not a great deal of built-in suspense about the ultimate outcome.

$1.4 Million In Building Projects OK'd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Construction funds totaling $1.4 million have been released for the Highway Patrol's new academy at the state fairgrounds.

The State Controlling board—watchdog over Ohio's finances—okayed use of the money Thursday as well as $49,800 for equipment. Planning funds were released previously.

In other action, the board authorized expenditures for installation of automatic fire alarm systems in six state hospitals.

Amounts involved are Portsmouth Receiving Hospital $6,000; Summit County Receiving Hospital $8,000; Tiffin State Hospital $38,000; Rollman Psychiatric Hospital in Cincinnati $10,000; Orient State Hospital $55,000; and Woodside Receiving Hospital in Youngstown $15,000.

Other approvals by the board include:

Purchase of dredging equipment for Indian Lake ($290,000) and Buckeye Lake ($120,000).

Use of $41,481 by the Youth Commission so 60 more children can be added to a foster care program now serving 125.

An additional floor for Ohio University's service building ($56,363), heating and ventilating for Memorial Auditorium $31,422, repairs to Copeland Hall roof ($3,000) and resurfacing dormitory parking areas ($19,944).

Installing new high pressure steam lines and a heating plant addition at Central State College ($10,332).

Ohio Elks Schedule Three-Day Conference

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Members of the Ohio Elks Association from throughout the state were expected today for the association's 35th annual fall conference.

Carlton L. Riddle of Willard, president of the 55,000-member association, said 95 lodges will be represented at the conclave, which will continue through Sunday. Franklin Fitzpatrick of Chicago, grand secretary of the order, will head a long list of speakers, most of them scheduled to talk at Saturday sessions.

EIGHT ABREAST — The starting gate at Chet Yaple's quarter mile race track will accommodate eight horses at a time. The gate was made by Yaple who fashioned the facility from a photograph. He is shown here on his racing stallion in front of the gate.

IN THE GATE — Chet Yaple, on King Dojo, gets ready to burst from the starting gate he has built for quarter horse racing. The gates are spring operated and open simultaneously when latches are released.

Quarter Horse Track Built by Area Trainer

The first quarter horse race course in Pickaway County, complete with starting gate, is nearly ready for action.

Its builder and owner is Chet Yaple, Route 4.

The private quarter mile track will be used primarily as a training site, Yaple says. However, he expects to hold an open house when grading is completed, inviting many central Ohio racing enthusiasts to bring their steeds to his track. He hopes that some day he may get the track approved by the Ohio Quarter Horse Racing Assn. for sanctioned races.

YAPLE has built his own starting gate, working from a photograph of one of similar design.

The only measurement he knew was the width of the starting stalls. All other dimensions were tailored by Yaple to fit horses.

The starting gate is set in concrete so the finish lines for the various distances are staggered.

At the end of the track, a 100-yard extension leads into a one-third mile jog track. Yaple pointed out this will give jockeys ample time to bring their steeds to a halt.

The powerful western-bred ponies race at seven distances — all short dashes.

THE DISTANCES are 220, 250, 300, 330, 350, 400 and 440 yards.

And at these distances, the quarter horse is considered the fastest of all breeds.

Rated according to speed, a

Top AAA quarter horse is one that runs the 440 distance under 22.10 seconds. An AAA rated horse goes the distance between 22.11 and 22.50, an AA between 22.51 and 22.90 and an A between 22.91 and 23.30.

As yet, Yaple has no accurate means of timing the horses as they burst from his spring operated starting gate.

Yaple owns a racing stallion, King Dojo, who numbers among his ancestors Leo the Great and King. These two potent stallions were foundation sires for most of the breed, he pointed out.

He is also training El Zant for Howard Frazer as well as a colt they hope to race next year.

In addition to training quarter horses for racing, he also trains them for pleasure and for contest classes in horse shows.

Semifinals Due Today In Women's Amateur

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle played Mrs. Pete Dye of Indianapolis and Barbara McIntyre of Colorado Springs met Robby King of Norfolk, Va., today in the semifinals of the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Tournament over one of the toughest windswept courses in the nation.

Its rolling sand hills stretch 6001 yards and its women's par of 73 is seldom equalled. Today's winners will play a 36-hole championship final Saturday.

Coach Al Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals played 2,216 major league games. He compiled a .289 batting average.

Worthington, Chillicothe Win Tilts

In twin bill baseball action in the Circleville Tournament last night at Ted Lewis Park, the Chillicothe Merchants dropped Teays Valley 9-1 and Worthington topped Derby 6-3.

The Merchants never trailed in their bid, garnering 15 hits. Teays Valley had five.

Smith hurled the win for Chillicothe, fanning 13 batters in the seven-inning game. He walked five batters.

Maxwell paced the Merchants when he halloped a homerun and a double. Reisinger added a double and a single. Owney had a double and a single and Kuhnner had two singles.

LAMBERT started on the mound for TV, but was relieved by Dixon in the fifth inning. Lambert walked two and fanned two, while Dixon walked two.

Dixon paced TV at the plate with two doubles. Stir hit a double and Rex Gregg tagged a two-bagger.

In the Worthington-Derby clash, James fired a three hitter for the visiting Worthington unit. He fanned 13 batters and walked one.

Schmeig tagged a triple for Worthington, and Weis, James, Harrington and Smith clubbed singles.

Combs started on the mound for Derby. Musselman came on in the third inning and finished the game.

Combs walked four and fanned six, while Musselman walked three and fanned seven.

Hawker tagged a homerun for the losers. Haney added two singles.

Duck Hunting Season Lengthened by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Duck hunters in the Mississippi and Central Flyways will have more shooting days — about a 10 per cent increase — this hunting season than last and the taking of canvasback and redhead ducks will be permitted in all four flyways this year.

These and a larger bag of coots were the major changes in 1964-65 basic hunting regulations for migratory waterfowl and coots announced today by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

of equipment consumed the last two days, sending the squads into three weeks of workouts winding up with the opening games Sept. 11.

The season opened on a note of hopeful warning from Paul E. Landis, state high school athletic commissioner.

"We are looking forward to a fine season," he said. "But I hope and trust the students, alumni and other spectators will display sportsmanship so that the athletic program will not have to be curtailed as it has in some sections."

He mentioned the Toledo situation where night games have been abandoned due to violence at some of last fall's contests.

"The Toledo teams will play in the morning and afternoon, and it is probable the crowds will be down as a result. That places a financial burden on the competing schools, for the athletic programs must be self-sustaining. Ever since John W. Bricker was attorney general there has been a ruling that tax money cannot be used to finance interscholastic sports," Landis said.

The commissioner urged the coaches, during the hot-weather workouts, to guard against heat strokes or prostration by using alternate 20 - minute workouts and rest periods and providing plenty of salt pills and water for the athletes. The suggestions were made in a "hot weather hints" pamphlet mailed all mentors.

The number of football-playing schools is up 23 from last year, due to consolidations providing adequate talent in spots where it was scarce in 1963.

Big rule changes allow one player to confer on the sideline with his coach during a time out, and a shift in the substitution setup which allows practice-ally free and unlimited replacements.

Schools are limited to a 10-game schedule, or to nine games and one preview. Each school is permitted three scrimmages against other teams prior to the opening of the season.

The first scrimmage is permissible Friday, Aug. 28, another the following Tuesday or Wednesday, and the third the following Saturday—allowing a week to put on the final touches for the opening title game.

The state championship, at the finish, will go to the school winning the Associated Press poll in which sports writers and sportscasters vote. The victor gets the Rutgers Hall of Fame trophy—the only one given in America to a scholastic team.

Niles McKinley won the 1963 crown, and Massillon Washington was second. Since then coach Tony Mason of Niles has moved to the University of Michigan as an assistant, and Coach Leo Strang of Massillon has taken over as head man at Kent State University.

Parish Wins Rifle Match At Fairgrounds

Russell Parish won the 22 caliber rifle match that preceded the last night's Farmers' and Sportsmen's Assn. meeting at the Pickaway Fairgrounds.

Parish scored a 193, firing 20 rounds at 50 yards in a 10-minute time limit. He was awarded a camp stove.

Winning the second place prize of a hunting knife was Robert Bower. Dick Redman was third, taking home a gun rack. Bower fired a 192 and Redman a 191.

Redman, secretary of the outdoor group, reported members were enthused with the showing of Dennis Shaw and Ronnie Majors at the National Rifle Matches.

Shaw and Majors were sponsored at the event by the club. Plans are being formulated to send five youngsters next year.

The Tarlton Boys Scout troop will take the hunter safety course, beginning Tuesday.

Redman pointed out the course was available to individuals as well as groups. Although boys are permitted to fire weapons at the end of the course if they have parents' permission, there is no actual shooting involved in the course.

New York Jet Gridders Hoping for Improvement

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — Weeb Ewbank is a chunky little man who thinks he can make Dick Wood into another Johnny Unitas. The odds against Ewbank's project are as long as those against his New York Jets in the American Football League.

Ewbank is taking a good look at rookies Pete Liske of Penn State and Mike Taliaferro of Illinois as backup men for Wood but his hopes of success rest on the 6-foot-5 veteran.

This is Ewbank's second year as coach of the Jets after a nine-year term with Baltimore in the National Football League.

"We're not kidding ourselves," said Ewbank. "The outfit that was called the Titans (the Jets' predecessors) didn't sign any draft choices for two years. We're not up there with the champions at San Diego, or Kansas City or Houston."

"But we are so far ahead of last year at this stage there is no comparison. I'd say we're better right now than we were in the middle of last season."

Sensitive to complaints that the Jets have no widely-known players, Ewbank lists as potential stars split end Bake Turner, Wood, flanker Don Maynard and tight end Gene Heeter.

A series of trades brought several new men to the Jets. Only center Mike Hudock, linebacker Larry Grantham, halfback Bill Mathis and Maynard remain from the original Titans.

Ewbank counts on Wood's passing to Maynard and Turner and the running of Mark Smolinski, rookie Rudy Johnson of Nebraska and Mathis to carry the Jets' offense. Either Liske or Taliaferro will make the club.

Matt Snell, the No. 1 draft choice from Ohio State, has not been able to run yet due to injuries received in the College All-Star game. Bill Perkins, a second year man from Iowa, is getting a good look at running back.

The offensive line probably will be composed of Sherman Plunkett and Jack Klotz at the tackles, Dan Ficca and Sam DeLuca at guards and Hudock at center. Winston Hill and rookie Dave Herman of Michigan State have a chance.

Ewbank has hopes for rookie Gerry Philbin of Buffalo and Bert Wilder of North Carolina State as defensive ends. Bob Watters, a 1963 regular, has been having knee trouble. LaVerne Torczon is the other holdover. Paul Rochester and Bob McAdams have a chance to oust oldtimers Sid Youngelman and Gordy Holz at tackle.

Dave Yohn has been moved to outside linebacker with Wahoo McDaniel, acquired from Denver in a trade, taking over as middle linebacker. Grantham is a fixture on the right side.

Marshall Starks and Clyde Washington will man the corners and Dainard Paulson and Billy Baird will be the safety men.

EIGHT ABREAST — The starting gate at Chet Yaple's quarter mile race track will accommodate eight horses at a time. The gate was made by Yaple who fashioned the facility from a photograph. He is shown here on his racing stallion in front of the gate.

IN THE GATE — Chet Yaple, on King Dojo, gets ready to burst from the starting gate he has built for quarter horse racing. The gates are spring operated and open simultaneously when latches are released.

Quarter Horse Track Built by Area Trainer

The first quarter horse race course in Pickaway County, complete with starting gate, is nearly ready for action.

Its builder and owner is Chet Yaple, Route 4.

The private quarter mile track will be used primarily as a training site, Yaple says. However, he expects to hold an open house when grading is completed, inviting many central Ohio racing enthusiasts to bring their steeds to his track. He hopes that some day he may get the track approved by the Ohio Quarter Horse Racing Assn. for sanctioned races.

YAPLE has built his own starting gate, working from a photograph of one of similar design. The only measurement he knew was the width of the starting stalls. All other dimensions were tailored by Yaple to fit horses.

The starting gate is set in concrete so the finish lines for the various distances are staggered.

At the end of the track, a 100-yard extension leads into a one-third mile jog track. Yaple pointed out this will give jockeys ample time to bring their steeds to a halt. The powerful western-bred ponies race at seven distances — all short dashes.

THE DISTANCES are 220, 250, 300, 330, 350, 400 and 440 yards.

And at these distances, the quarter horse is considered the fastest of all breeds.

Rated according to speed, a

Top AAA quarter horse is one that runs the 440 distance under 22.10 seconds. An AAA rated horse goes the distance between 22.11 and 22.50, an AA between 22.51 and 22.90 and an A between 22.91 and 23.30.

As yet, Yaple has no accurate means of timing the horses as they burst from his spring operated starting gate.

Yaple owns a racing stallion, King Dojo, who numbers among his ancestors Leo the Great and King. These two potent stallions were foundation sires for most of the breed, he pointed out. He is also training El Zant for Howard Frazer as well as a colt he hopes to race next year.

In addition to training quarter horses for racing, he also trains them for pleasure and for contest classes in horse shows.

Semifinals Due Today In Women's Amateur

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle played Mrs. Pete Dye of Indianapolis and Barbara McIntyre of Colorado Springs met Robby King of Norfolk, Va., today in the semifinals of the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Tournament over one of the toughest windswept courses in the nation. Its rolling sand hills stretch 6001 yards and its women's par of 73 is seldom equalled. Today winners will play a 36-hole championship final Saturday.

Coach Al Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals played 2.216 major league games. He compiled a .289 batting average.

Worthington, Chillicothe Win Tilts

In twin bill baseball action in the Circleville Tournament last night at Ted Lewis Park, the Chillicothe Merchants dropped Teays Valley 9-1 and Worthington topped Derby 6-3.

The Merchants never trailed in their bid, garnering 15 hits. Teays Valley had five.

Smith hurled the win for Chillicothe, fanning 13 batters in the seven-inning game. He walked five batters.

Maxwell paced the Merchants when he walloped a homerun and a double. Reisinger added a double and a single. Owney had a double and a single and Kuhner had two singles.

LAMBERT started on the mound for TV, but was relieved by Dixon in the fifth inning. Lambert walked two and fanned two, while Dixon walked two.

Dixon paced TV at the plate with two doubles. Stir hit a double and Rex Gregg tagged a two-bagger.

In the Worthington-Derby clash, James fired a three hitter for the visiting Worthington unit. He fanned 13 batters and walked one.

Schmeig tagged a triple for Worthington, and Weis, James, Harrington and Smith clubbed singles.

Combs started on the mound for Derby. Musselman came on in the third inning and finished the game.

Combs walked four and fanned six, while Musselman walked three and fanned seven. Hawker tagged a homerun for the losers. Haney added two singles.

Duck Hunting Season Lengthened by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Duck hunters in the Mississippi and Central Flyways will have more shooting days — about a 10 per cent increase — this hunting season than last and the taking of canvasback and redhead ducks will be permitted in all four flyways this year.

These and a larger bag of coots were the major changes in 1964-65 basic hunting regulations for migratory waterfowl and coots announced today by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

36,856 Kids Open Football Practice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's high school footballers—707 teams and 36,856 youngsters—opened practice today. Physical exams and issuance of equipment consumed the last two days, sending the squads into three weeks of workouts winding up with the opening games Sept. 11.

The season opened on a note of hopeful warning from Paul E. Landis, state high school athletic commissioner.

"We are looking forward to a fine season," he said. "But I hope and trust the students, alumni and other spectators will display sportsmanship so that the athletic program will not have to be curtailed as it has in some sections."

He mentioned the Toledo situation where night games have been abandoned due to violence at some of last fall's contests.

"The Toledo teams will play in the morning and afternoon, and it is probable the crowds will be down as a result. That places a financial burden on the competing schools, for the athletic programs must be self-sustaining. Ever since John W. Bricker was attorney general there has been a ruling that tax money cannot be used to finance interscholastic sports," Landis said.

The commissioner urged the coaches, during the hot-weather workouts, to guard against heat strokes or prostration by using alternate 20-minute workouts and rest periods and providing plenty of salt pills and water for the athletes. The suggestions were made in a "hot weather hints" pamphlet mailed all mentors.

The number of football-playing schools is up 23 from last year, due to consolidations providing adequate talent in spots where it was scarce in 1963.

Big rule changes allow one player to confer on the sideline with his coach during a time out, and a shift in the substitution setup which allows practice ally free and unlimited replacements.

Schools are limited to a 10-game schedule, or to nine games and one preview. Each school is permitted three scrimmages against other teams prior to the opening of the season.

The first scrimmage is permissible Friday, Aug. 28, another the following Tuesday or Wednesday, and the third the following Saturday—allowing a week to put on the final touches for the opening title game.

The state championship, at the finish, will go to the school winning the Associated Press poll in which sports writers and sportscasters vote. The victor gets the Rutgers Hall of Fame trophy—the only one given in America to a scholastic team.

Niles McKinley won the 1963 crown, and Massillon Washington was second. Since then coach Tony Mason of Niles has moved to the University of Michigan as an assistant, and Coach Leo Strang of Massillon has taken over as head man at Kent State University.

Piton Recalls Playoff Win Scored by Giants

By HIL PITON
President, National Assn.
Of Pro Baseball Leagues
For The Associated Press

In August of 1951, the New York Giants trailed the Brooklyn Dodgers by 13 games.

Then the Giants started to move, and after winning an incredible 37 games out of 44, earned a tie for the pennant when the Dodgers dropped their final contest.

This meant a best-of-three playoff to determine which team would represent the National League in the world series against the Yankees—who had taken the American League flag by a comfortable five games.

I happened to be in New York, and attended the playoff series. The Giants won the first game by 3 to 1, with Bobby Thomson, Giant outfielder who was born in Scotland, hitting a home run off Dodge race Ralph Branca.

But the Dodgers roared back next day with an impressive 10 to 0 win—and that set the stage for my greatest thrill in sport.

The rubber game was played in the Polo Grounds and the Dodgers, with big Don Newcombe in fine fettle, were coasting along with a 4 to 1 lead when the Giants came to bat in the last of the ninth.

Bang, bang, bang! One run was across, and Giant runners on second and third with one out. Newcombe was replaced by Branca, and again Bobby Thomson stepped up to the plate.

IN THE COMMON PLEAS COURT OF PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO

LEGAL NOTICE
Franklin Federal Savings and Loan Association
267 South High Street
Columbus, Ohio

Plaintiff, vs.
Betty June Smith, et al. Defendants.

W. L. Smith aka Walter Smith, whose place of residence is unknown and cannot be ascertained, will take notice that on the 4th day of June, 1964, plaintiff filed its petition against him and others in the Court of Common Pleas of Pickaway County, Ohio, the same being Cause No. 2324 in said Court for the foreclosure of mortgages on certain real estate in said petition described, to-wit:

Situated in the Township of Seloto, Pickaway County and State of Ohio and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a 1/4 inch pipe in the center of the Welch Road and in the County line, said pipe being at the corner of said road to the farm of Nancy J. Ebert; thence S. 5 deg. 57 feet W. 22.13 feet with the center of the Welch Road to a 1/4 inch pipe thence S. 88 deg. 13' E. 182.66 feet to a nail in the cement base of a gate post being in the northwest corner of said post; thence N. 5 deg. 27' E. 213.9 feet to a 1/4 inch pipe in the north line of the land of Nancy J. Ebert and County line; thence N. 35 deg. 50' W. 182.66 feet with the County line to the place of beginning, passing a steel end post at 158.66 feet, containing 0.911 acres of land, more or less, and being a part of Survey 6115 of the Virginia Military Land.

The prayer of said petition is for the foreclosure of mortgages and other equitable relief. Said defendant W. L. Smith aka Walter Smith is to answer said petition on the 10th day of October, 1964.

After taking a strike, Bobby lined "the shot that was heard around the world" into the left field stands. The game was over. The Giants had accomplished the impossible with a 5 to 4 conquest.

I shall never forget the scene that followed. At first the fans were quiet, obviously shocked into disbelief of what was plainly before their eyes.

Then, just as Thomson rounded second base, pandemonium broke loose and continued for a solid half hour.

I can still see Leo Durocher, the Giant manager, turning hand springs down the third base line; I can still see the Giant players mobbing Thomson as he crossed the plate; and I can still see the Dodgers trudging disconsolately toward their dressing room in back of center-field.

For sheer drama, this was far and away my greatest thrill in sports.

AFL Division King Boston To Be Better This Year

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP) — Boston won the 1963 Eastern Division championship with the American Football League's best defense and quarterback Babe Parilli operating at "25 per cent efficiency."

"We hope to be better this year," said Coach Mike Holovak. "Injuries slowed down Parilli last year and hurt his timing. Babe lead the league in pass interceptions. The year before he had the fewest interceptions."

Parilli is in his 11th season of pro ball at the age of 34. Holovak's Patriots beat Buffalo in the division playoff last December but were crushed 51-10 by powerful San Diego in the title game.

Injuries at the running back position put a heavy burden on Larry Garrison, the Pats' double duty fullback. Ron Burton, No. 1 running back, missed the entire regular season because of a back ailment and disc operation. His replacements were part time men.

Rookies J.D. Garrett of Grambling and Pete Pedro of West Texas State have been running ahead of Burton in the early games. Tom Neumann backs up Garrison and Harry Crump is ready to play.

"We certainly expect a better season at flanker than we got from Jim Colclough last year," said Holovak. "We anticipate a better year at quarterback and figure on help for Garrison."

Gino Cappelletti, defending AFL scoring champion, must battle Colclough for the flanker job. Art Graham will be the split end as Holovak seeks more speed for the position.

The retirement of tackle Milt Graham and the trading of Walt Cudzik forced Holovak to rebuild his offensive line.

Rookie Jon Morris of Holy Cross has taken over at center with competition from Bob Dentel. Bob Yates and either Don Oakes or rookie Jay Donovan of Boston College will be the tackles and Billy Neighbors and Charley Long at guards. Tony Romeo has the edge at tight end.

"Our defensive unit will be the same as last year," said Holovak. "Then add Don Webb, broke loose and continued for a solid half hour.

I can still see Leo Durocher, the Giant manager, turning hand springs down the third base line; I can still see the Giant players mobbing Thomson as he crossed the plate; and I can still see the Dodgers trudging disconsolately toward their dressing room in back of center-field.

Chisox Sweep To Top Spot In AL Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"A bitter blow," moaned Hank Bauer.

"My thoughts of a pennant are high now," beamed Al Lopez.

"We'll be right up near the top again if..." said Yogi Berra hopefully.

Those were the reactions Thursday of three American League managers following a pair of games that left Chicago in first place, Baltimore without Boog Powell and New York struggling for air.

Lopez' White Sox replaced the Orioles in first place, blanking New York 5-0 for their fifth straight victory and the Yankees fourth consecutive defeat.

The Orioles' 4-3 loss to Boston dropped Bauer's boys one-half game behind the White Sox.

Chicago's vault to the top made Lopez' 50th birthday a happy one, but for Bauer and Powell there was no celebration.

The slugging left fielder broke his left wrist trying for a catch against the wall in the second inning and may be lost to the Orioles for as long as a month.

"We might as well forget him," Bauer grumbled.

Forgetting 31 homers and 80 runs batted in undoubtedly will be difficult. Getting a replacement will be even tougher.

The White Sox, on the other hand, are playing possibly their best ball of the season. After dropping their first 10 games with the Yankees, the Sox turned around and grabbed six of the last eight, including a sweep of this week's four-game series.

Then there's Berra, who is counting on the eight games the top two teams must play with each other. The first of four games in Chicago is on for tonight.

The tension, meanwhile, might be getting to the Yankees. Berra and infielder Phil Linz became engaged in a heated row over Linz' harmonica playing in the team bus following the latest defeat.

Coach Frank Crosetti called the incident the worst he's seen in his 33 years with the team.

Back on the field, Los Angeles edged Detroit 4-3 and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 7-4 in other AL games.

In the National League, Philadelphia swept Pittsburgh 2-0 and 3-2, Cincinnati downed San Francisco 10-7 and Milwaukee knocked off Los Angeles 8-2.

Piton Recalls Playoff Win Scored by Giants

By HIL PITON
President, National Assn.
Of Pro Baseball Leagues
For The Associated Press

In August of 1951, the New York Giants trailed the Brooklyn Dodgers by 13 games.

Then the Giants started to move, and after winning an incredible 37 games out of 44, earned a tie for the pennant when the Dodgers dropped their final contest.

This meant a best-of-three playoff to determine which team would represent the National League in the world series against the American League flag by a comfortable five games.

I happened to be in New York, and attended the playoff series.

The Giants won the first game by 3 to 1, with Bobby Thomson, Giant outfielder who was born in Scotland, hitting a home run off Dodge race Ralph Branca.

But the Dodgers roared back next day with an impressive 10 to 0 win—and that set the stage for my greatest thrill in sport.

The rubber game was played in the Polo Grounds and the Dodgers, with big Don Newcombe in fine fettle, were coasting along with a 4 to 1 lead when the Giants came to bat in the last of the ninth.

Bang, bang, bang! One run was across, and Giant runners on second and third with one out.

Newcombe was replaced by Branca, and again Bobby Thomson stepped up to the plate.

INTERSECTION CRASH — City Patrolman William Brungs surveys damage that resulted when a car and truck collided early today at Court and High Sts. Both drivers escaped injury. It is one of four accidents reported in the city since yesterday evening, all injury free.

No Injuries Result in 4 Accidents

A rash of four traffic accidents, starting with two late yesterday, marred the local scene, although no injuries resulted.

What could have been the most serious one occurred at 7:26 a. m. today at Court and High Sts. The collision involved a loaded Coca-Cola truck and a car.

The truck, driven by David Betz, Route 1, Stoutsville, collided with a car operated by Thelma Blevins, 171 Hayward Ave. Both drivers told police they thought the green light was in their favor.

Patrolmen said a considerable number of filled softdrink bottles were broken, causing scattered glass. They said both vehicles were extensively damaged.

EARLIER in the day, at 3:35 a. m., two cars were involved in a slight mishap at the First National Bank parking lot. Officers said resulting damage was light after a vehicle backed into one that was parked.

Minor damage was inflicted when a car struck the rear of a parked auto at 9:29 p. m. yesterday on E. Main St. just west of Pickaway.

Slight damage also was reported in a collision of two cars at Lancaster Pike and E. Main St. This mishap came at 4:35 p. m.

DeLongs See "Dolly" in NYC

Among the fortunates who were able to obtain tickets to "Hello Dolly!" starring Carol Channing during a vacation trip to New York were Mr. and Mrs. Earl DeLong, Route 2, Laurelville.

While in New York, the DeLongs attended a performance of Broadway's biggest hit musical comedy at the St. James Theater.

Produced by David Merrick and directed by Gower Champion, "Hello Dolly!" has been playing to capacity audiences ever since it opened Jan. 16, 1964 when the critics tossed their adjectives in the air for the nation's greatest stage success since "My Fair Lady."

Community Fund Meet Reslated

This week's quarterly meeting of the Pickaway County Community Fund has been postponed until next Tuesday.

The meeting originally had been scheduled for this Tuesday. Community Fund trustees-at-large and representatives from participating agencies are urged to attend the Aug. 25 session which will start at 8 p. m. in the Probate Court chambers in the Courthouse.

Key details on the coming Community Fund campaign here will be outlined.

TOKYO (AP) — Lt. Everett Alvarez Jr., the U.S. pilot captured Aug. 5 by the Communist North Vietnamese, reportedly has sent a letter saying he is well treated.

North Vietnam's radio station at Hanoi said today that Alvarez sent the letter to his wife, Tancee, in San Jose, Calif.

Alvarez's plane was shot down by ground fire during the U.S. air strikes on North Vietnamese patrol boat bases.

The broadcast quoted his letter as saying: "Up to now I have been well treated. I am adequately clothed and sheltered."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four years ago, four Polish refugees met in Germany, all planning to come to the United States.

One of them, Andrew Starowski, married Gizela, the only girl in the group.

Thursday, police said, Jerzy Burczyk, third of the four, found Starowski, 27, had shot himself to death in his apartment in suburban Playa Del Rey.

Burczyk told police that three weeks ago Gizela had gone away with her husband's best friend, John J. Lewandowski — fourth of the four refugees.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — More than half the Polaris missile submarines in a planned fleet of 41 have completed launching exercises.

The Tennessee Thursday became the 21st sub to conclude test and training firings when it launched a Polaris A3 missile while submerged off Cape Kennedy.

The rocket propelled a warhead section to a target area more than 2,000 miles away.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Six days after it was taken over, the U.S. Library and Information Center in Jogjakarta remains under Indonesian control.

An American Embassy spokesman said today Indonesian officials still are refusing to discuss the matter.

The library was seized by the semi-official National Front Organization, which promptly closed it.

LONDON (AP) — British officials have discovered that fleas caused a serious drop in the production of a big railway carpenter shop.

An investigation was ordered when an efficiency expert discovered the 36 staff carpenters spent much of their time scratching themselves.

An official of the government-run railways made this announcement Thursday: "Questioning revealed the men were scratching because they itched. And further investigation showed they itched because they'd been bitten by something."

Further investigation revealed that the fleas came from the nine cats living in the shop.

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan said today it thought the United States withdrew a $5-million loan offer because of Pakistan's relations with Communist China.

The parliamentary secretary for defense told the National Assembly that the United States withdrew the loan offer "presumably because Pakistan at present has relations with Communist China."

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eunice Kennedy Shriver, sister of the late President Kennedy, has been hospitalized in Philadelphia, but the University of Pennsylvania Hospital says her condition is satisfactory.

Her husband, Sargent Shriver, director of the U. S. Peace Corps, said he did not know the exact nature of his wife's illness. A spokesman for the hospital said tests were being made.

Mrs. Shriver, 43, became ill at Philadelphia's International Airport as she was about to board a plane for Boston after visiting a city day camp for retarded children. She is executive vice president of the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, which contributes money to the camp.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hope Cooke, the onetime New York socialite who now is the maharani of Sikkim, has come home to show off her new baby.

The maharani arrived in New York Thursday. It was the first time she had been in the United States since she married the maharajah four years ago. The maharajah arrives today. They took separate planes as a safety measure to protect the dynasty of Sikkim.

Today, the maharani and her 6-month-old son, Prince Palden will fly to Seal Harbor, Maine, to visit Mrs. Selden Chapin, her aunt and former guardian.

ZERMATT, Switzerland (AP) — Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, said today he will climb the Matterhorn Saturday, weather permitting.

McNamara has been training all week to climb the 14,701-foot mountain. He made the ascent several years ago.

The secretary's teen-age son and a Swiss guide are to go along on the climb.

Fire Levels Barn; Loss Is $5,875

A barn valued at $2,500 was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon on Rector Road south-east of Williamsport.

The barn was on a farm owned by W. D. Heiskell of Williamsport. The contents of the building were also destroyed.

The contents, valued at $3,375, included a mounted corn picker, a rotary hoe, disc, breaking plow, 700 bales of hay and 150 bales of straw.

The building and its contents were insured.

The Williamsport Volunteer Fire Department answered the call. Deputy William Pontious said cause of the blaze was undetermined.

Preliminary Steps Outlined For February's E-B-I Event

Preliminary steps outlining a program for the coming Education-Business-Industry Day here were undertaken last night during a meeting at the local Du Pont plant.

Taking part in the planning session, one of several which will take place prior to the actual event, were Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce committee members, city and county school officials and representatives from various business-industry firms that will participate.

A discussion period was headed by Alden D. Bray, chairman of the Chamber Business-Education committee. Objectives were to set down ideas and suggestions for formulation of a program.

The E-B-I Day, tentatively scheduled for either Tuesday, Feb. 23 or Wednesday, Feb. 24, will focus on businessmen making visits to city and county schools.

THE COMING community event represents a continuation of the Business-Industry-Education Day held here in February of this year, rated an outstanding success by teachers and business people taking part.

The B-I-E activity centered on America's free enterprise system in action. This year's program will dwell on the vast American educational operation.

Many ideas and recommendations were reviewed last night. The next step will be a study of these suggestions by city and county school officials who then will concentrate on forming a program that will be followed.

Bray and his committeemen are hoping for a maximum turnout for the Area Chamber of Commerce sponsored project.

INTERSECTION CRASH — City Patrolman William Brungs surveys damage that resulted when a car and truck collided early today at Court and High Sts. Both drivers escaped injury. It is one of four accidents reported in the city since yesterday evening, all injury free.

No Injuries Result in 4 Accidents

A rash of four traffic accidents, starting with two late yesterday, marred the local scene, although no injuries resulted.

What could have been the most serious one occurred at 7:26 a. m. today at Court and High Sts. The collision involved a loaded Coca-Cola truck and a car.

The truck, driven by David Betz, Route 1, Stoutsville, collided with a car operated by Thelma Blevins, 171 Hayward Ave. Both drivers told police they thought the green light was in their favor.

Patrolmen said a considerable number of filled softdrink bottles were broken, causing scattered glass. They said both vehicles were extensively damaged.

EARLIER in the day, at 3:35 a. m., two cars were involved in a slight mishap at the First National Bank parking lot. Officers said resulting damage was light after a vehicle backed into one that was parked.

Bar Panel Posts Set for Six Attorneys

Appointment of six Pickaway County attorneys and judges to standing committees and sections of the Ohio State Bar Assn. has been announced by Roger H. Smith, president.

The announcements were made along with about 1,200 other bar committee appointments. Members of the panels are selected from each of the 17 districts by the District State Bar Executive Committee.

Serving on committees from this area are: Richard E. Penn, atomic energy; Judge William Ammer, criminal law; George D. Young, eminent domain; Kenneth M. Robbins, family law; Roy H. Huffer Jr., junior bar section; and Emmitt L. Crist, real property section.

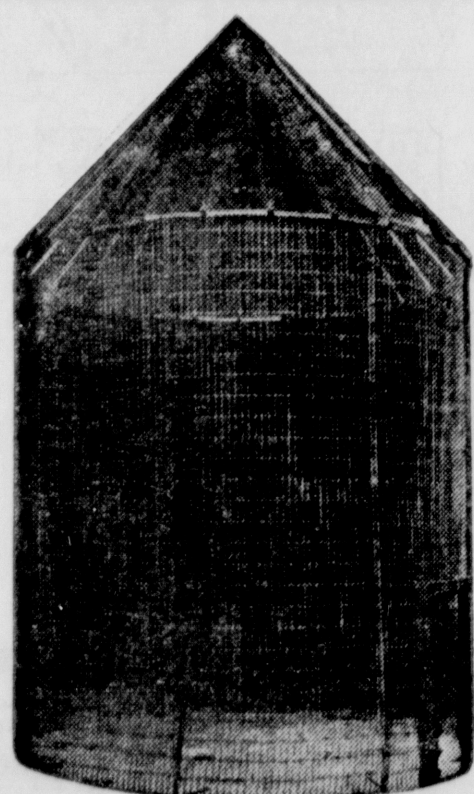

In addition, a number of special committees will be appointed later by the bar president to study specialized areas of the law.

COMMITTEES study various areas of the law, looking toward improvements and refinements which may be proposed as legislation or recommendations in efforts to keep Ohio's laws up-to-date.

The full committees met twice a year with the first meeting scheduled Sept. 11 and 12 in Columbus.

Young Cager Hurt
